LATE NEWS

One Killed, One Hurt in Truck Crash

A 24-year-old Negro woman was killed and a Negro man was seriously injured late last night when the truck in which they were riding plunged over an embankment onto the tracks of the Atlantic Coast Line Railway near Ben Hill.

The victim, identified by Fulton County Police as Gertrude Travis, of Ben Hill, was pinned in the cab of the truck when the vehicle smashed against the tracks. Police and Grady Hospital physicians had to use hack saws to extricate the woman's body from the wreckage.

The Negro man, not identified immediately by police, was admitted to Grady in serious condition. He was thrown clear of the truck when it went over the embankment, officers said.

2 Held in $1,500 Tavern Robbery

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky.—(P)—Two men were under arrest and a third was sought in connection with a $1,500 armed robbery at Abe Nixon's tavern near Mannington, Christian County.

State police said Marvin Strader, 42, Muhlenberg County, was being held in jail here on an armed robbery charge.

At Greenville Sheriff Chuck Robinson said Ostel Underwood, about 22, of Central City, had been identified following his arrest by three victims of the holdup.

Sheriff Robinson said Underwood was turned over to officers to be brought here.

Officers reported about $1,000 of the loot was taken from a cash register in the tavern. They said the remainder was taken from 15 to 18 customers who were lined up at gunpoint and held under guard in a back room of the tavern.

Flood Threatens Glades Area

MOORE HAVEN, Fla.—(P)—A long break in the nine-canal dike between Moore Haven and Clewiston and rising waters along corner's Highway pose new flood threats in the rich Everglades farming area.

J. E. Frierson, Chairman of the Glades County Board of Commissioners, reported that nearly five miles of the nine-mile dike had crumbled under the weight of rain and drainage water, following in the wake of last week's hurricane.

The area threatened, Frierson said, includes 8,000 acres of sugar cane, hundreds of head of cattle, three modern dairy farms and hundreds of acres of planted vegetable farmland.

U. S. Rebuffs Bulgaria on Greek Troop Claim

WASHINGTON—(UP)—The State Department today published a caustic diplomatic exchange with Bulgaria over the Communist-controlled country's complaint that Greek troops were concentrating along her borders.

Bulgaria had protested to the United Nations against the alleged Greek concentrations.

The Department said the American Legation at Sofia suggested on Aug. 28 that the Bulgars refer their complaint to the Special UN Balkan Committee, which already has accused Bulgaria of helping Greek guerrillas in their civil war against the Greek Government.

The Legation added that if Bulgaria didn't want to call in the UN Committee, the United States would be "pleased" to send American officials to carry out an investigation.

Buenos Aires Braces for Atlantic Storm

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina—(UP)—Port officials displayed storm warnings early today as a southwesterly gale swept in from the Atlantic toward Buenos Aires and the Plate River estuary.

The Weather Bureau interrupted regular radio programs to warn the local population to take full storm precautions. All planes were ordered grounded.

Already-rising winds blew a billboard off the roof of a building in a northern suburb late yesterday, killing a youth in the street below and breaking many telegraph and telephone lines.

Plan Wins First Test In Senate

By JIM FURNISS

Acting Gov. Thompson's "free election" bill appears headed for trouble late this week in the House. It passed its first hurdle in the Senate yesterday with flying colors.

The bill, introduced by Sen. G. Everett Millican, of Atlanta, had its first reading yesterday at the opening of the Legislature's extraordinary session.

Within four hours it had received the unanimous approval of the Senate Committee on the State of the Republic. Legislative leaders predicted the Senate would pass the bill Wednesday morning substantially unchanged, and send it to the House.

"It looks like the Talmadge people want to wait until the bill hits the House where they are stronger before ripping apart of it to pieces," one Thompson leader observed.

Thompson, himself, said he was pleased at the harmony of the Legislature's first meeting and his bill's progress so far.

Senate leaders of both factions agreed generally on the first two sections of the bill allowing all parties to get Presidential and Vice Presidential electors on the Nov. 2 ballot.

Some Senate Committee members, however, were cool to the bill's sections Three and Four which, they said privately, would force the Georgia Democratic Executive Committee to hitch its wagon to Truman or bolt.

Section Three requires Party officials certifying electors with the Secretary of State to submit affidavits that such candidates are Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith conferred with President Truman last night and said relations with Russia were very "critical," but not on the verge of war.

Smith told reporters at no time since the war had conditions been more critical.

Asked whether that meant we were going to war, Smith replied: "That's too deep for me to answer."

More details on the East-West crisis on Page 6.

But I'll modify critical, and say serious. I don't by 'critical' mean we are trembling on the verge of war."

"If our present policy of firmness, patience and determination is followed, you don't necessarily have to face the ultimate."

Smith flew to Texas from Washington to confer with the Chief Executive for some 3½ hours.

The President relayed word to reporters that Smith gave him a "complete and valuable" fill-in on the crisis in Berlin.

In Paris, meanwhile, Britain's Ernest Bevin warned the United Nations might fall apart over the East-West conflict as the possibility arose that a double veto by Russia and the United States could block out of the Security Council.

Plaza Bid Well Under $477,000 Limit

The first block of the park-plaza over the railway gulch through the heart of Atlanta will be built well within the $477,000 earmarked for the project on the basis of bids opened yesterday by Council's Purchasing Committee.

J. A. Jones Construction Company, of Charlotte, was the apparent low bidder with a base bid of $293,572. To this must be added an estimated $19,200 for landscaping, $34,000 for alterations which the city wants and engineering fee. The first block will extend from Peachtree to Pryor Street.

Four bids were submitted and were ordered referred to Robert & Company, Engineers, for tabulation. It is expected that the award will be made at Council's meeting next Monday.

Other base bids were listed as follows:

Thompson & Street, Charlotte, $326,400; Mion Construction Company, Atlanta, $337,000, and the MacDougall Construction Company, Atlanta, $353,700.

Mayor Hartsfield, who attended the bid opening, expressed keen satisfaction over the fact bids were within the allocation. He said the bids insured early start on the project, but was concerned about the prospect of another rise in the cost of construction steel. Hartsfield said final approval of detailed plans for the plaza have been given by the State of Georgia and the N. C. & St. L. Railroad.

The Jones Company agreed to complete the construction in 300 working days.

Under the plan, there will be parkways, lawns, trees and a fountain atop the plaza. It will be a downtown beauty spot. Hartsfield has insisted that if the entire plaza could not be built now, the City should proceed with as much of the improvement as it could.

DIVORCEE TELLS JUDGE:

Mail Order Beau Found Wanting--Her Money

By CELESTINE SIBLEY

A middle-aged divorcee who got herself a beau by mail order, yesterday turned him in to get her money back.

"He won my confidence—and took my money," Mrs. Willie Belle Mitchell told Judge Ralph McClelland in Criminal Court of Fulton County, fixing her reflective gaze on dapper, aging Herbert N. Allen, of Birmingham, who sat in the defendant's chair.

"I met him through a correspondence club and we was to get married," Mrs. Mitchell went on. "He said he needed money to buy a home in Birmingham and I sold a house I own and gave him $1,480. Then he said he needed money to buy a car and I got him $750 more. We was to get married May 15, and the last day of April was the last time I saw him . . . until Saturday night."

Allen, looking reproachfully at his late love, took up the story there: "And Saturday night I called her and asked her if she still wanted to get married and she said, 'Yes.' That's why I came to Atlanta, that's why I'm where I am now—and isn't this a wonderful honeymoon?"

Judge McClelland agreed it might be worse and promptly made it worse. He held Allen to the Grand Jury under $3,000 bond. Allen, who said he works for cement company in Birmingham and was "just looking for a mother for my motherless baby," went off to the Tower protesting he never got a cent from his betrothed.

Actress Martha Sleeper Featured In Real Sea Drama Off Savannah

SAVANNAH—(UP)—Actress Martha Sleeper soaked her aching feet and rested last night after experiencing a real-life drama clinging to the mast of a luxurious yacht that ran on the rocks off Savannah Beach.

Miss Sleeper said the experience reminded her of her Broadway role opposite Spencer Tracy two years ago in "The Rugged Path," a stage melodrama of shipwreck at sea. She also played in "The Bells of St. Mary's" and had a part in "Christopher Blake" on Broadway last year.

Sailing is her main hobby. Off stage she is Mrs. Harry Deutsch, of New York. She was en route to Florida to join her husband, a construction engineer, who left San Juan, Puerto Rico, yesterday to meet her.

Miss Sleeper and three men who were on the yacht "Ella M." made their own way ashore in a small dinghy after spending 11 hours in water that got neck-high before the tide began receding.

The yacht, valued by the Coast Guard at over $100,000, struck a "blind" buoy and slammed into nearby jetties at the mouth of the Savannah River Saturday about 8 p. m.

The hull was ripped out on the jagged rocks and she sank within two and a half minutes. The deck was left awash in knee-high water which rose as the tide came in.

"I was holding a flashlight at the wheel for the skipper at the time," Miss Sleeper said. "Suddenly there was an awful jolt and our boat seemed to settle almost instantly."

Miss Sleeper said she dashed below to call the Coast Guard on the

Elliott Blames Meter

State Auditor B. E. Thrasher, Jr., today will begin study of a statement from the State Game and Fish Commissioner, Charlie Elliott, that his car's speedometer was out of order and that this accounted for a discrepancy of 31,921 miles in his expense account.

Elliott was given four days to explain this discrepancy following a hearing in which Arthur Anderson, Commission Cashier, admitted misappropriating $4,439.63, and was placed under arrest.

At the hearing last week conducted by State Auditor Thrasher, Elliott said he was unable to account immediately for the fact that his car's speedometer showed it had traveled 36,368 miles when he sold it in February, while his expense vouchers showed a reading of 68,289 miles about the same time.

Elliott yesterday sent Thrasher an affidavit from G. P. Grogan, garage operator, to the effect that the car's speedometer had given repeated trouble during 1947 and 1948. Grogan said his records showed his repairmen worked on the speedometer of Elliott's car three times, and he believed they serviced it without charge on other occasions. Since parts were not available, Grogan said he kept the speedometer in the best possible working order by periodic repairs.

"During that time when the speedometer was not in working order, I estimated the trip mileage by road maps to the best of my ability and turned in mileage tickets on what the mileage was supposed to be instead of what it actually showed on a defective speedometer," Elliott said.

Thrasher said he would evaluate this explanation with the other evidence.

Dewey Maps Vast Resources Plan; Truman Spurns GOP 'Unity' Offer

As Gov. Thomas E. Dewey last night charted a vast development of the Nation's resources to provide "more power to wage the peace," President Truman said he didn't want the brand of "unity" offered by a Republican Party that would let prices go sky high and give tax relief to the rich.

In a major campaign speech at Seattle, the Republican candidate for President outlined a nine-point program keyed to regional supervision, in a large measure, of the country's rivers. He said:

"Just as we needed vast amounts of hydroelectric power to develop the atomic bomb, we now need more power to develop the peace."

Dewey estimated that America's power-producing capacity would have to be increased by almost 20 percent during the next five years "if our Nation is to have new factories and electricity we need to lighten the burden of work in our homes and on our farms."

Mr. Truman, speaking at Bonham, Texas, also declared:

"The Eightieth Congress has shown that the Republican Party is still the high-tariff party of Smoot and Hawley and Joe Grundy."

"And you can't expect anyone under an obligation to Joe Grundy to change it into some other kind of party," Dewey has been stressing "unity" during the Republican campaign.

Truman made no explanation of his reference to former Sen. Joseph P. Grundy, Nor did he mention his Republican rival by name. But the Grundy wing of the Republican Party in Pennsylvania was credited with playing a big hand in swinging the nomination to Dewey at the Republican Convention.

Calling for power and reclamation development to build a stronger nation, Dewey said, "We are determined to be strong enough to live in peace."

As an example of what he had in mind, the New York Governor referred briefly to the dispute over the Berlin blockade—now being checked to the United Nations—and added:

"In the hearts of peace-loving peoples everywhere tonight, there is a fervent prayer that calmness and wisdom and the firm hand of justice may resolve this newest crisis. No nation can hope to profit from aggression."

Then the GOP nominee made what seemed to be an appeal to the Russian people:

"Whatever some leaders may do, I am convinced that the peoples of all nations desire peace. My most devoted purpose is to spread this conviction among governments through the influence and example of our own unity and desire for peace."

He said the Republican Party never has been friendly to the South and "is not interested in its problems."

"Whenever the Republican Party has been in power," he added, "the South's fortunes have declined."

Twenty years ago, he recalled, many Southern Democrats supported a Republican, Herbert Hoover, against Al Smith, the Democratic nominee. "I am sure," he said, "your memories of the one four-year term of President Hoover are sufficiently etched in your mind that you need no reminder from me."

Neither Gov. Dewey nor Gov. Warren, GOP candidate, "knows the South," Barkley said, and in Dewey's case "he opposed the interests of the South by intervening against the South in its fight for more adequate freight rates."

Without mentioning the revolting Southern Democratic Party, Barkley said "some of the following of fragmentary political groups, some of them in the South, have been attracted by sincere interests, some by distortion of issues and some by misunderstanding of these issues."

Barkley invited Southerners to resume their "long and fruitful partnership with the Democratic Party" and to "adjust differences."

Dewey said that meanwhile "it is imperative that we in America remain strong and grow stronger."

To that end he said down this resource-saving program:

1—"We shall press forward in all the services so vital to an expanded, more secure agriculture, including reclamation, drainage, soil conservation, flood control."

2—"We shall encourage the expansion of existing power facilities and move steadily forward in the development of projects for new power to be sold at the lowest self-liquidating rate."

3—"To serve agriculture and industry and in the interests of national security, we shall progressively open up our rivers to ever wider use for navigation."

4—"In the management and development of our timber resources, we shall be guided by the principle of selective cutting and sustained yield."

5—"The Federal authorities will duly recognize the long established principles of the Western water law."

6—"We shall develop our rivers on a regional basis, with broad participation by the people of the area affected in the planning and operation of the project."

7—"In every step we shall seek to protect and increase our abundance of fish and wildlife."

8—"Our next Administration will see to it that Government responsibility is placed in charge of capable men and women who will act without bureaucratic red tape."

9—"We shall provide sound long-range budgetary planning for resource development that will welcome and encourage the views of the people of the region involved."

Earlier at Portland, Ore., and at other communities en route to Seattle, Dewey outlined the same nine-point program as he carried his campaign into the Northwest from San Francisco.

Mr. Truman told his audience at Bonham—the home town of Sam Rayburn, House Democratic Leader and former Speaker:

"The Democratic Party will give you the kind of government that Sam Rayburn stands for—government in the interests of the farmer and the working man and all the people."

In a campaign speech prepared for delivery at Dallas, Texas, Mr. Truman said Republicans were calling for unity but:

"They don't want unity—they want surrender."

"I do not intend to surrender—and I don't believe the American people are going to surrender."

At Fort Worth, the President spoke to what police said were 15,000 persons crowded into the plaza of the Texas and Pacific Railroad Station.

Young Solon Is Visitor

The youngest Legislator chosen for the 1949 session showed up as a visitor for the special session of the present General Assembly yesterday.

Just 21 years old, Bobby Lee Cook, of Chatooga County, is a fighter in the true sense of the word. He captained his college boxing team before taking this, his initial fling into the political arena.

Cook is a graduate of Vanderbilt Law School, the University of Alabama, Gordon Military Institute, and did work at Cornell. A veteran of World War II, he served two and one-half years in the Navy as a lieutenant. The Legislator-nominate and June Hays, of Chatooga County, were married three months ago.

Wincoff Horror Lives Again in Damage Suit

The horrors of the Wincoff Hotel fire, apparently stamped in again in Superior Court yesterday as the first of an estimated deliriously on the memories of those who lived through it, began unfolded 145 damage suits, totaling more than $6,000,000, went to trial before Judge Bond Almond and a jury.

The first suit was brought by O. B. Torbert, from Atlanta City limits, of the death of his 16-year-old daughter, Sarah Virginia. Torbert is seeking $15,000.

Court attaches said the trial of the Torbert suit will clear the way for the other suits which have been hanging fire pending the outcome of various legal actions taken to determine the defendants.

W. B. Walker, a resident of the Hotel for the last ten years, was the principal witness yesterday. He testified that he was trapped in a room on the fifteenth floor for two hours, after the screams of a girl "somewhere in the building" awakened him. He told of his panicky efforts to escape and how he kept alive by running water in the bathroom and sloshing it on the door. He testified that he had been aware that he was trapped in a burning building for 45 minutes before he heard the Fire Department arrive.

Vote Democratic, Keep Dixie Voice--Barkley

ASHEVILLE, N. C.—(P)—Sen. Alben W. Barkley told Southern Democrats last night that a vote for any other candidate than President Truman "is a vote for the Republican nominees."

First of top Democratic candidates to invade the South, where many dissident party members are backing Gov. J. Strom Thurmond for President, Barkley said it would "be a tragic thing if the partnership between the Democratic Party and the States of the South were to be destroyed."

Thurmond, States Rights Democrats' candidate, is on the North Carolina ballot with Truman and Gov. Dewey.

Barkley, Democratic vice presidential nominee, spoke at a meeting arranged by the State Democratic Committee.

Should the South break away from the Democratic Party, he declared, "it would leave the South without effective means of promoting its own high aspirations" and "without a voice in the councils of the Nation."

The November election, he said, is between Democratic and Republican candidates, for "no other party has any hope of obtaining more than a fraction of votes."

Without mentioning the revolting Southern Democratic Party, Barkley said "some of the following of fragmentary political groups, some of them in the South, have been attracted by sincere interests, some by distortion of issues and some by misunderstanding of these issues."

Barkley invited Southerners to resume their "long and fruitful partnership with the Democratic Party" and to "adjust differences."

THOUGHT WESTERN GERMANY PLAN DROPPED?

Misinformed, Stalin Himself Broke Berlin Agreement, Experts Believe

Could Adam Eat the Apple with Stomach Ulcer Pains?

The biblical story of Adam eating a raw apple might never have come to pass had he suffered from stomach ulcer pains. If excess stomach acidity causes you distress after eating, or painful heartburn, gas, sour stomach, indigestion, even stomach ulcer pains, then try Udo's for quick relief. Udo's Tablets contain 3 proven fast-acting medicinal ingredients. Like a doctor's prescription, Udo's works soothingly and fast. More than 210 million sold since 1926. Get a 25¢ box of Udo's. If you don't get amazing relief within 1/2 hour, you get DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK.

By RELMAN MORIN

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Premier Stalin probably was, and is, a victim of misinformation and bad advice, but he was not over-ruled on the Berlin Agreement, nor has he lost control of his own government.

On the contrary, all intelligence reports available in Washington indicate that he is still the whip-hand master.

It appears, in the light of this information that Stalin himself aborted the Berlin Agreement, although he had expressed a desire to dissolve the deadlock there, had helped to formulate the terms, and presumably has approved them.

This fact—the failure to carry out a bargain that bore Stalin's own seal—caused a good deal of speculation when the American White Paper was released Sunday.

Three probabilities were posed in the effort to explain this apparent contradiction:

1. Was Stalin over-ruled, after having made the Agreement?

2. Did the arguments of the other members of the politburo cause him to change his mind, after the solution was formulated and before it was put into effect?

3. Or, acting on mistaken information, did he mis-gauge the effect of the agreement, and therefore reverse his own position?

Washington experts believe the third hypothesis is the correct one.

In the Berlin talks, Stalin's main objective was to bring about a cancellation of the plan to set up a government in Western Germany.

The decision to explore the possibility of such a government was taken in London, by the United States, Britain and France, some months before. A conclave of German officials was called for Sept. 1.

Russia consistently opposed this plan. Stalin himself referred to it, according to the White Paper, on a number of occasions during the Moscow talks that finally produced the Berlin Agreement.

The White Paper notes: "Stalin wished it recorded as the insistent desire of the Soviet government that the execution of the London decisions with respect to the establishment of a Western German government be suspended until such time as the Four Powers met and tried to reach an agreement concerning Germany."

Throughout the talks, Stalin virtually made this the price for an agreement to lift the blockade on Berlin, and settle the other questions outstanding there between the Soviets and the three Western Powers.

At the same time, intelligence reports show, a message was broadcast to the satellite governments of Eastern Europe, to the Cominform headquarters, and to the leaders of Communist parties elsewhere in the world.

It was a stand-by message. It instructed them to be prepared for "a propaganda victory of the first magnitude," and to be ready to exploit the "victory" in their respective areas.

The American Ambassador to Russia, W. Bedell Smith, pointed out, during the discussions, that there was no connection between the Berlin problem and the question of Western Germany. The White Paper shows, also, that his statement was buttressed by a separate instruction from Washington.

Nevertheless, it appears that Stalin thought his objective would be gained and that, in the end, the Western Powers would agree to his terms.

Why did he come to this conclusion?

For a long time, diplomatic sources, both American and non-American, have been expressing doubt that Stalin is kept fully informed about international affairs. Some evidence exists that accurate information, adequately analyzed, has been kept from him.

In a dictator-system, to transmit bad news—along with the frank evaluation of it as bad news, is not healthy for the person transmitting it.

Consequently, Washington observers believe that Stalin originally embarked on the Moscow talks, expecting that his price—abandonment of the plans for Western Germany—would be met. He carried the discussions up to a point where the agreement was actually drawn.

Hence, when the great "propaganda victory" could not be proclaimed, observers believe Stalin simply gave the order to Marshal Sokolovsky, the Russian Military Governor in Berlin, to sabotage the agreement.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A $6,000,000 loan to Czechoslovakia, the first such credit granted in the Soviet sphere, has been announced by the International Monetary Fund.

The new venture into economic co-operation across the Russian-erected barrier dividing Europe was disclosed as Governors of the 47-nation Fund and World Bank assembled in cautious optimism over the progress of world recovery.

Chairman Wang Yun-Wu, Chinese Finance Minister, declared in the opening address the Marshall Plan guaranteeing reconstruction in Western Europe will go forward—and "it is now well-nigh certain recovery there will be achieved."

But the Governors heard a word of caution from President Truman that it cannot be achieved without "the co-operative effort of all nations."

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The dispute between the Western Allies and Russia will explode in the United Nations Security Council within the next 72 hours, it was indicated last night.

Whether as the result of Russia who was thrown out of the old League of Nations in 1939 for attacking Finland, will leave the UN remains to be seen.

ACCORDING TO VISHINSKY LONDON—(AP)—The Daily Herald quoted Andrei Vishinski, Deputy Soviet Foreign Minister, today as saying, "We shall not abandon the United Nations."

SEVERAL REASONS WASHINGTON—(INS)—Best informed Western Allied opinion today is that Russia will not force itself to interfere with the Berlin air lift in such fashion as to precipitate a war.

International experts conceded that the Russians were imprudent, but pointed out several reasons why Moscow would avoid carrying the East-West crisis to a state of armed conflict.

BERLIN SPEAKS BERLIN—(INS)—Berlin's City Assembly called on the United Nations yesterday to bring about the lifting of the Soviet blockade of the city immediately and the withdrawal of all occupation troops from Germany.

A resolution, being sent to the French Government for presentation to UN, qualifies its demand for evacuation of occupation troops by stating that if this is impossible, the Four Powers should confine themselves to military matters.

AERIAL EVACUATION? PARIS—(INS)—The Western Allies were understood to be studying the possibility of staging history's greatest aerial evacuation to beat the blockade of Berlin.

More than a half million Germans would be flown out of the Allied areas of Berlin to the West-ern Occupation Zones of Germany under a plan said to be under investigation by the American, British and French Foreign Ministers.

Another Lady is Free of Stomach Gas and Headache One lady said recently that her stomach used to be like a "gas factory." That is, when she ate a meal it seemed to turn right into gas. She was always bloated, had awful stomach gas pains, daily headaches and constant irregular bowel action. Now, however, this lady says she is FREE of STOMACH GAS and HEADACHE and she says the change is due to taking INNER-AID. Her meals agree with her. No gas or bloating after eating. Headaches and constipation are gone. "Oh! what relief!" states this lady. "Why don't other gas and constipation sufferers try INNER-AID?"

INNER-AID contains 12 Great Herbs; they cleanse bowels, clear gas from stomach, act on sluggish liver and kidneys. Miserable people soon feel different all over. So don't go on suffering! Get INNER-AID. Sold by all drug stores.

Americans, Germans Cool In Face of Hot Crisis

BERLIN—(AP)—You couldn't tell from the conduct of Americans here that there was any new crisis over Berlin.

From Gen. Lucius D. Clay on down to the GI walking guard, this day of possibly fateful decision was just the same as any other day in chilly blockaded Berlin.

There has been a crisis here so long and every one's so used to it, that even the failure of negotiations and the appeal to the United Nations left no outward mark.

Gen. Clay, the U. S. Commander, worked "just exactly as he does any other day," one of his aides reported. The negotiations had passed out of his hands for the moment.

Sunday when he first learned that the Moscow talks had failed, Clay played tennis, hundreds of soldiers went to an Army football game, some using their tightly rationed gasoline for the outing.

Judge McClelland pointed out that she was under 12 months' suspended sentence for the same offense and held her to the higher court under $500 bond.

DISSATISFIED CUSTOMER—Even the police had to admit that Ben Thomson's new haircut was grounds for criminal action when Thomson stopped them in Buckhead the other night. "His hair was messed up considerably," reported Pat. M. J. Spears in a brief critique. "Had gaps all over." Besides that, complained Thomson, it cost him 70 cents. Officers went back to the barber shop where they found the proprietor, H. W. Fitzgerald, intoxicated. Thomson got his 70 cents back and Fitzgerald promised the officers he would stop cutting hair and go home to bed.

JOLITY FOR JOE—Everybody seems to have benefited by this deal but Joe Dodd. T. R. Dinsmore, of Crabapple Road, told the County Police Joe came into his store apparently feeling good had gas put in a car and was inside ordering $12 worth of merchandise when somebody else drove off in the car. Joe refused to pay for his purchases, Dinsmore called the police and, according to the report, the officers "found Joe Dodd drunk and down in the road when we arrived." Joe is in jail and somebody still owes Dinsmore for the gas.

Rifle Production
Up at Springfield

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. — (AP)—Production of M-1 rifles for infantry and M-3 machine guns for jet planes is being stepped up to record proportions at the big Springfield armory, Army officials have revealed.

Home from an important ordnance conference in Washington, Col. Morris K. Barroll, Commandant, sounded a call for 200 additional employees-machine operators, carpenters, laborers. The plant already is working overtime on a six-day week schedule with 2,600 employees following recent additions of approximately 1,000 workers.

Habeas Corpus
Plea by Capone
Men Studied

Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood today is studying a petition for a writ of habeas corpus filed by Louis Campagna and Charles Gioe, prisoners in the Federal Penitentiary here.

If the writ is issued, it will be heard Oct. 5 by Judge Underwood, who took the case under advisement yesterday. Campagna and Gioe (pronounced "joy"), both one-time members of the Al Capone gang, charged that a warrant issued against them for violation of their paroles by a parole board in New York was issued for political purposes and without any supporting evidence.

Both men were released on parole in August, 1947, from Leavenworth Penitentiary and subsequently were rearrested for violating conditions of their paroles.

They were sentenced to 10 years for violation of the Anti-Racketeering Act. Their attorneys are William S. Stewart, of Chicago, and Neil Andrews, of Atlanta. The latter is a former United States district attorney here.

NEW YORK—(AP)—A 75-year-old Baltimore woman, whose record of transatlantic ocean voyaging started in 1880, has completed her 147th crossing.

She is Mrs. Madsella Hvostlef, a passenger on the Norwegian liner, Stavangerfjord. Mrs. Hvostlef, and wife and the daughter of shipping men, said she planned to go back to Norway next May to visit grandchildren.

EXHIBIT OF GEORGIA ARTISTS—George Beattie, Jr., right, an instructor at the High Museum of Art, shows his portrait, "Head of a Girl," to Mrs. William Elsas, co-operator of the Gallery, 88 Ellis St., N. E., where Beattie and 31 other Georgia artists are exhibiting their work. Twenty selected paintings from the exhibition are on display this week in the windows of J. P. Allen & Company.

SIDEWALK EXHIBIT

Georgia Paintings Draw
Pedestrians' Plaudits

Selected Georgia paintings are drawing appreciative plaudits from Peachtree pedestrians.

A sidewalk exhibit of 20 oils and watercolors—which opened yesterday in the windows of J. P. Allen & Company—prompted one hurried shopper to pause and remark:

"I didn't know Georgia had such good artists!"

The Peachtree showing is part of an exhibition of some 50 works, which began Sunday at The Gallery, 88 Ellis St., N. E. The paintings were selected by Vose Galleries of Boston, Mass., and successfully exhibited there during the past Summer.

More than 1,000 persons viewed the exhibit at the Gallery's open house Sunday, according to Mrs. Ernest Felber and Mrs. William Elsas, who have run the Gallery since its opening in 1946.

"It's the first showing of Georgia paintings we've had," explained Mrs. Felber, "and everybody agreed this exhibit compares favorably with all the others."

George Beattie, Jr., Ohio native and a "Georgian by marriage" (to Virginia Lane, of Macon), who recently joined the faculty of the High Museum of Art, called the exhibit "the finest I have seen in the South."

Paintings range from a blustery seascape by Lamar Dodd to a peaceful "Estuary in Savannah" by Raiford Wood. Typical Georgia scenes, such as "Sorghum Mill" by Atlanta's Frances Alexander, add local color to the exhibition.

For a Free and Open Ballot

The Legislature which convened yesterday appears ready to enact indicated ballot reforms as quickly and harmoniously as possible.

There are undercurrents of dissension, to be sure, but the vast majority in both houses seem determined to do the job without bickering or delay.

We hope so.

The bill introduced in the Senate yesterday by the Fifty-Second's Everett Millican represents the studied efforts of some of the State's best legal minds. It has the support and indorsement of both major factions. And it seems to meet the demands of the voters, namely that they shall have the opportunity to vote for the presidential candidate of their choice, be it Truman, Dewey, Thurmond or Wallace; that they shall have assurance that the electors for whom they vote will faithfully represent them in the electoral college; and that they may vote a split ticket if they so desire.

This will provide a free ballot, in the best American tradition.

It is what Georgians want. And it is apparently what their representatives intend to give them.

Worse Comes to Worst

Early morning traffic on Peachtree Street, north of Spring, is never easy-moving.

But yesterday morning—between 8:30 and 9 o'clock—it was the slowest in history.

The increased volume and consequent delay was, of course, occasioned by the opening session of the second and third grades from burned-out E. Rivers School at their new quarters in the Temple. This combined with the normal into-town rush and Washington Seminary traffic to make for conditions so bad it took a full 20 minutes to negotiate the five or six blocks on Peachtree between Collier Road and Spring, where a diversion of routes gave some relief.

The situation on Piedmont, with parents bringing Rivers students in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades to their temporary classrooms in the Jewish Recreational Center at Tenth and Piedmont, was almost as bad, although at least a portion of the students arrived by bus.

Unless the majority of the students do ride the busses or, through the formation of car pools, reduce materially the number of automobiles used to transport them to school, there is little hope for improvement. Indeed, as a properly indignant correspondent points out in the first letter in today's Pulse of the Public, "If the Northsiders thought it was bad this morning, just wait until the Winter rains set in."

We hope, without much optimism, that the traffic flow will be speeded this morning and will continue to show improvement during the next few days.

If not, then the School Board, yes, and Washington Seminary authorities, too, will have to postpone their first classes until 9:30 or 10 o'clock, when the bulk of the into-town traffic has moved.

Certainly, we cannot go through the Winter with conditions such as existed yesterday.

At Least the Russians Know Our Feelings

This country has joined with Great Britain and France to accuse Generalissimo Josef Stalin of breaking his pledged word to settle the Berlin crisis. And Great Britain's Foreign Sec. Ernest Bevin has said flatly that if war came Russia must bear the full onus of its coming.

At the same time the United States Department of State issued a "white paper" (diplomatic phrase for a background report) in which every step of this country's deliberations with Russia is revealed. It charges that the Russians will agree, in principle, and then refuse to agree on any of the "pick and shovel" work necessary to the settlements.

All this is to the good.

While the immediate reaction is one of fear and uncertainty, we certainly may know that the two separate attacks, one from Paris and one from Washington, will be heard everywhere by the peoples of the world, save in Russia itself.

If the matter does go before the United Nations, the Western countries will be outvoted in any controversy not widely advertised and with all the facts well established. But, so plainly have the Berlin facts been publicized that the Russians privately must be concerned with world opinion.

It is likely they are acting as they are to influence the November election. For some reason the opinion persists in Russia that we will get out of Berlin if the Republicans win. For that reason, our Government is taking special care to see to it that Candidate Thomas Dewey as well as President-Candidate Harry Truman is receiving full information on the day-to-day progress of our foreign affairs.

It is highly important to our own future and the chances for world peace that both major parties continue to present a united front on foreign policy with respect to dealings with the Soviet Union.

For the moment, at least, we have shown a power to deal in words with as much vitality as the Russians themselves. One thing is sure: The situation cannot worsen, short of war, and these firm positions of today may result in a change for the better after Nov. 2, if not before.

GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

Polls Indicate Truman Is Gaining

WASHINGTON—President Truman, a man with more ups and downs in popular favor than any Chief Executive ever to sit in the White House, is again coming up in the polls.

The latest figures of Dr. Gallup, the eminent pollster, show that Mr. Truman has reduced the margin between him and Gov. Dewey considerably since early Summer. In June at about the time of the Republican nominating convention the poll of the American Institute of Public Opinion listed the New York Governor as the favorite of 49 percent of the voters. Mr. Truman, with only 38 percent, lagged 11 percentage points behind.

Today the Institute finds that the Dewey figure has been reduced to 46½ percent, while the President's support has climbed from a low of 37 percent in August to 39 percent, not counting a two percent which is credited to the Dixiecrat ticket representing votes which normally may be added to the Democratic total.

If the Dixiecrats do not poll any more votes than that, their ticket of Thurmond and Wright will play a negligible part in the November election. Most of them will come from Democratic strongholds of the South, where the defection of so few voters could hardly affect the ultimate outcome.

For purposes of establishing a national balance, therefore, the two percent of voters found favorable to the Dixiecrat ticket may well be added to the President's total, which in that case comes to a current 41 percent, or only 5½ percent short of the Dewey strength. The rest is divided between the Wallace third party candidacy, which is given 3½ percent, and those who are undecided, representing nine percent.

It is to be noted also that the Crossley poll, another leading public sentiment survey, gives Gov. Dewey an advantage of only 51 percent over the combined opposition of President Truman and the secondary candidates.

But what is interesting about the Gallup poll is that it indicates Mr. Truman is again on one of his periodic upsurges in popular favor. It tends to show that the trend against him has stopped and he is now gaining strength at the expense of both Dewey and Wallace, who has lost 2½ percentage points since June.

Another recent poll by the Institute in California bears out the trend. There it was shown Mr. Truman has gained six percent as compared to early September.

All of the present figures, it should be borne in mind, are based upon a survey taken before the President started out on his current Western campaign tour, or before his major campaign effort actively got under way.

If he is able to maintain the trend that appears to have started in his direction, Mr. Truman may yet close the gap between him and Gov. Dewey enough to make a horse race out of the contest, though most observers still think that is unlikely.

By any calculation, the President, if he is to be conceded any chance to win, must start with a nucleus of the South and the border states of Maryland, West Virginia, Kentucky and Oklahoma, plus his home state of Missouri. These states have a combined electoral vote of 171, or 95 short of the 286 majority. Ordinarily all of them are to be counted in the Democratic column, unless there is a GOP sweep.

Prospects seem to be favorable at the present time for the Truman-Barkley ticket to pick up another block of 23 votes in the states of Arizona (4), New Mexico (4), Nevada (3), Montana (4), Utah (4) and Rhode Island (4). These are states which have been pretty consistently Democratic for the past 15 or 20 years.

Mr. Truman, even with all those states, would still be 72 votes short of a majority in the electoral college. He would have to get these from states like California, with 25 votes; Illinois, 28; Michigan, 19; Massachusetts, 16; Connecticut, eight; Delaware, three; Colorado, six, and Washington, eight. There is a total of 113 electoral votes in this block of states.

The door appears to be pretty much closed to the Democrats elsewhere. It shows what the President is up against even under the most favorable outlook that can be seen. He conceivably could win. But he will have to prove himself a miracle man to do so.

RALPH MCGILL

It Is Now Officially Communist

On Sunday the Attorney General of the United States released the names of organizations classified, on the basis of FBI and other Federal investigations, Communist, subversive and Fascist.

This classification is established without reference to the House Committee on Un-American Affairs. Many persons, and for good reason, dislike many of the aspects of the House Committee's methods. The Attorney General's classification is made outside that committee. It is based on evidence that will stand up.

One of the organizations listed as Communist is the People's Institute of Applied Religion.

This organization has headquarters 20 miles from Birmingham on the Montgomery highway. Formerly the offices were at 4105½ Third Ave., South, in Birmingham.

The classification of Communist follows an earlier one of a few months ago labeling the organization as subversive. It now, on the basis of evidence, is labeled by the Attorney General as a Communist organization.

Many of its workers are known Communists. The official classification is not surprising.

This Communist organization was formed, on the basis of documents issued by it and in my possession, to "work" in the South.

One document issued early this year from the Birmingham headquarters announced the new "leaders," and on page three lists the Southern States to which they are assigned.

The plan is to use the religious approach, to infiltrate into churches, because "the hill people are easy to reach through preaching."

Don West, who in the thirties was an admitted Communist, signing articles in the Communist Daily Worker, one of them beginning, "I am Don West, Communist," is listed in the People's Institute of Applied Religion bulletin as the Georgia representative.

In announcing one of the new "leaders" to organize the South, the People's Institute bulletin said of the organizer, Archer Torrey, a former seaman in the then Communist-dominated Maritime Union, as follows:

"Torrey will check closely with Don West in working out a program for Georgia, in which State he (West) will be our State representative."

There follows an appeal for money. Money is needed, said this Communist organization, to put the workers in the field. Owen H. Whitfield was being held in Missouri. Gerald Harris was to be "put out in the sticks" in Alabama. A. L. Campbell, referred to as a "firebrand," was to be sent to work in textile mills. A sum of $1,000 was asked to supply him with funds.

Under the heading of "Budget," the bulletin said: "There are other leaders of 'The New South' who are doing work with the Institute in addition to their regular jobs. They are Harry Koger, of Texas; Don West, of Georgia; Leon Turner, of Arkansas, and so on."

In appealing for funds, the bulletin quotes a letter from Don West, from which I quote: "Dear Claude: Your decision to concentrate in rural Georgia is realistic. . . . But indorsement is not enough. The Institution cannot roll along on good wishes. . . . Therefore, I make a pledge . . . not for $100 but for $200. . . ."

Don West himself is in "rural" Georgia, maintaining a more or less mysterious church home for students near Douglasville, Ga.

Don West's story is an interesting one. Many of his former students defend him, saying that he is not a Communist. They have heard him preach and teach, and they say that discussion of his Communist record here is Red-baiting.

Well, the record keeps running. West was a Communist. At one time he was proud to write under his own name that he was a Communist. He urged, under his own name, that others become Communists. If he isn't he should be equally proud to deny them. He has not.

Since that time his company has been largely Communists and fellow travelers. This year finds him one of the State directors, and a contributor, to a Communist organization's plans to carry out "organization" in the South.

I don't know if he is a Communist. He was, by his own admission. He seems to appear more and more in the typical Communist pattern, of using religion and infiltration into the classroom as a means to an end. The fact that the Unitarian Church, on a national basis, is worried about Communist infiltration into its liberal ranks, also is interesting. The "school" which West has on his farm in rural Georgia is supposed to have a church connection, but the local Unitarian Church did not even know of its existence until it was here revealed. Someone else had put it there.

To those who are not at all disturbed about a possible Communist success in this country, but who are disturbed at the Communist methods of using religion and education as a cover, the case of Don West and his affiliation with the Communist People's Institute becomes significant in at least a minor degree.

RALPH T. JONES

Who Could Foresee Russian Unreason?

There are, scattered here and there on my book shelves, various volumes published around 1942, '43 and '44, dealing with the anticipated reactions and developments of the world, or of Europe, after the war, then raging, came to its end.

Recently I have been glancing over a number of these volumes and have found them very interesting, in one particular respect. That is, few of the authors were good prophets.

All of them pictured a postwar world in terrible economic condition, with millions upon millions of hungry people wandering over the face of Europe. They foresaw drastic changes in the forms of government in many countries and they were remarkably accurate in depicting the war crimes trials of leading Nazis and in some other comparatively minor aspects of the postwar happenings.

But they all apparently stumbled over one factor. That is, Soviet Russia. None of them foresaw the unreasonableness of the Soviet in its dealings with its former Allies. Rare was the author, then, who realistically wrote of the ideological clash which now presents a new threat to the peace of the world.

It seems to have been simply beyond understanding of Western minds, the deliberate adoption of unreason, of stupidity, of diplomatic contrivance which is the pattern of Soviet dealings with the rest of the world.

The Soviet reaction to every problem, to every situation, great or small, always reminds of a quarrelsome child. You've known such children, who seem to argue and quarrel, without the slightest basis of reason, but just for the sake of irritating others. The Russian leaders seem to enjoy similar provoking antics, with no object other than to irritate others until they eventually lose their tempers and slap at the hateful little torment in the way they'd slap at a mosquito which kept buzzing around their heads.

No matter what the Western powers propose, no matter how logical, fair and reasonable it may be, the peevish Russian reply comes back, "No!" With an implied, at least, "Yah! Yah!" added.

The Russians begin artillery maneuvers and practice along the air corridor into Berlin, to the immediate danger of American and British air crews flying supplies into that sad city. So the Russian authorities notify of this dangerous proposal, but not until an hour or two after the firing has begun.

Deliberate, childish provocation, it seems to be. The Russian people are, probably, good folks on the whole. But those who have seized leadership of the vast Soviet realm appear to be doing their best to provoke the world into new insanity.

And who could have foreseen such Russian cantankerousness, during the days when they were invaluable Allies in the fight against Nazi Germany? Certainly not the pundits who put their wisdom into the published books of prophecy of four or five years ago.

A tavern keeper in Australia felt that a certain area of blank wall in his establishment should be covered with some sort of a picture.

He kept his eyes open for such a picture, requiring only that it be of approximately the right size and shape to cover the wall space in question. At last he found what he wanted in a dusty second-hand store. The picture was dirty, but it had a quite good frame. So that the $90 the tavern keeper paid was mostly for the frame.

He had the picture cleaned. One day someone who knew something about art happened into the tavern and stared at the picture. Others were brought to view it.

Now the canvas is en route to experts in London, for verification of the Australian experts' belief. That it is a Titian. If so, it will sell for at least $100,000, they say.

Lame Ducks To Ignore a Dead One

The Legislature convened yesterday, apparently with more harmony than an all-day singing with dinner on the grounds.

Of course, this may prove as deceptive as the qualifications set forth in a lonely hearts catalog.

Out of a decade of covering Georgia General Assemblies, I have arrived at this conclusion: Unity is only skin-deep.

The Legislators have a lower boiling point than dry-ice. The fair and cool weather signals prevailing yesterday morning are like Joe Stalin's solemn commitments . . . subject to change without notice.

There was only one evidence, of partisan politics yesterday. That was when Speaker Hand threatened to have Hoke Willis' campaign manager escorted from the floor of the House. This is the same Fred Hand who, a few brief weeks ago, was writing me that if Hoke were elected he wanted us to keep him in mind for the Speakership.

Seriously, I do hope the Legislature does maintain its non-partisan approach and not attempt to harass the Acting Honorable. The solons ought to leave M. E. alone, I mean, if only out of respect to the dead.

THE PULSE OF THE PUBLIC

The Constitution welcomes letters on either side of any subject. They should not exceed 200 words and must be signed, although names will be withheld on request. We regret none can be returned. Address all letters to Editor Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Traffic Problem

Editor Constitution: I read with interest your paper's calm editorial on the solution of the E. Rivers School problem. What you have overlooked is that in the solution of this problem Fulton County completely forgot its major problem, "traffic."

In establishing all but two classes at E. Rivers in the Temple at Spring and Peachtree and in the Jewish Recreational Center at Tenth Street we have diverted additional traffic to Peachtree Road and Piedmont, all of the traffic moving South at one of the worst hours in the morning.

If the Northsiders thought it was bad this morning, just wait until the Winter rains set in. The solution of the E. Rivers problem was made contrary to the wishes and best thinking of the School Board. It probably was a compromise plan effected so that those mothers who habitually play bridge in the afternoons can continue to do so at no inconvenience to themselves. There is little Susie who couldn't share her desk at Morris Brandon with a child from E. Rivers because she might get germs. She can now go to school and get out at the same time as heretofore and get her germs at home from the maid or maybe playing with the neighborhood children. At least her measles won't be on my child's conscience.

The City of Atlanta has never evidenced much profound thinking on the handling of its traffic problem. Have you ever tried to pass Washington Seminary in the mornings? Have you ever tried to drive on Piedmont and get through the Tenth Street-Ponce de Leon traffic light bottlenecks? Have you ever tried to drive past the Second-Ponce de Leon Baptist Church at Peachtree and Wesley on a Sunday morning? Well, brother, you are going to do it five days a week for over eight months of this school season if you live on the North Side.

The city has overlooked a few dead-end streets coming into Peachtree between Collier Road and Spring. Perhaps they could get—if the manufacturer can keep up production—another couple of lights for these streets which would further facilitate the situation. We could then park in the middle of Peachtree, jump out and have breakfast at the Toodle House, get back in our car and move a good 20 feet.

Well, we do it again, but couldn't we through some act of the county and city sentence those gentle parents who at the Board hearing boomed and hissed and shouted (and would have thrashed their own elementary school children for doing the same thing) to drive from Garden Hills to Atlanta via either Peachtree or Piedmont every morning for the next eight months?

Atlanta. G. L. DIXON.

Atlanta County?

Editor Constitution: Our officials have petted the rich Buckhead area for about 35 years with special free privileges. About 85 percent of their expenses were paid for with tax money of the City, and thereby encourage that area to fight annexation and progress. Any talk of weaning this area brings forth screams of undemocratic, dictatorial. Our officials are practicing a mean American custom of giving special privileges to the rich. This area is treated as if incorporated, getting fire protection, parks, referendums, etc., with no regard for justice of our system of government.

After seeing both sides of the issue, honest County Commissioners will cut out these special privileges. They should have been enjoined years ago.

The Millican plan is legal and practical. It is now in use, and has been since Jefferson's day. If the West had used our appeasement method, it would have retarded its progress for years. Chicago extended her limits so as to surround all the little towns. Business is business, why dicker 35 years? Buckhead, like Russia, wants her way or none. Why can't they see themselves as other see them?

What we need and deserve is that this section of the State agree to enlarge its Counties and to rearrange their boundaries so as to create a new County (Atlanta) including much of Fulton and DeKalb. We believe the Buckhead leaders, after studying this plan, will appreciate it as forward-looking and progressive. Such a job will never have to be done over.

Atlanta. GEORGE W. THRELKELD.

Virginia Plan

Editor Constitution: The letter signed "Northsiders" which appeared in The Constitution Thursday morning seems to me to deserve an answer. The citizens of Atlanta not only pay 100% of city taxes, but in addition, pay approximately 85% of county taxes, for which they receive absolutely no services in return. The millions of dollars which Atlantans pay every year in county taxes is used to maintain "makeshift" services to the North Side, such as the Buckhead Fire Department and two other county stations, plus whatever police and garbage service the county renders the area.

A simple investigation of tax figures will show that Atlanta, through its payment of county taxes, has practically subsidized service to the North Side and other areas of the county. It might be here noted that without Atlanta taxes there would probably be no County Fire Department, meager as it is; Police Department or garbage service.

In addition to paying millions for the services rendered the North Side and other county areas, Atlanta also sends its own fire department outside the city limits when its help is requested.

The city fire department answers hundreds of calls annually to bathe fires beyond the city limits. The City of Atlanta also furnishes free of charge all water which is used in fighting these fires. It would be interesting to see how many times the county answers calls inside Atlanta, although it is the tax money of city residents which maintains it.

Personally, I believe that this inequitable tax situation could be best remedied through the adoption of the Virginia Plan, whereby the county is eliminated from any jurisdiction within the city limits, and city residents are freed from any and all county taxation. In this way the city would be liberated from the monstrous injustice of paying county taxes and the county would resume the duties for which it was intended—the governing of rural areas. The Virginia Plan also provides for annexation to the city of all possible unincorporated areas, and the citizens of the North Side would probably then be willing, in greater measure than in the past, to become part of Atlanta. Annexation, therefore, is a step toward the realization of the Virginia Plan, which would provide realistic, efficient and effective one-government for the entire urban area.

A Column From the Time-Table

NORTH BOUND BY TRAIN—Reading the time tables you get the full flavor of the old American names. You see the places where the people live. You catch glimpses of the country's history as the names flash past on the little stations, the whistlestop stations, the places where the folks come from who make the big cities.

Read them off, one by one, as the train rolls out of Birmingham on its long pull north, listen to the sound of them, rich in the ears. There's Leeds and Brampton, Cook Springs and Pell City, Riverside, Lincoln and Etowah, and then the man calls Anniston, "Anston," he says, short and sharp. "All out for Anston." Stay on the train—through De Annville (and how did that old French name get here?), Choccolocco, Iron City, Edwardsville (Is the old quiltmaker of Edwardsville still alive?) and then comes Muscadine.

Roll on into Georgia, through Tallapoosa, Waco, Bremen, Temple and Villa Rica, Douglasville and Austell. Look out the window as the train creeps slowly into the snaky yards of Atlanta. Stay on the train and ride. Oglethorpe, Chamblee, Norcross and Duluth, Suwanee, Buford and the prettiest name on the Southern line, Flowery Branch.

"Gainesville," the man says. But stay on the train. Lulu coming now, Beilto, Alto, Bain and Cornelia, where the tracks cut through the heart of the town. Mount Airy next, then Toccoa, and Georgia is spanned. Come now the Carolina towns, where the big mills smoke. Westminster, Seneca, Courtnay, Clemson, Central, Morris, Liberty, Eastley, "Greensboro." Let the drivers roll. Through Taylor, Greer, Duncan, Lyman and Wellford, Fair Forest, Hayne and now Spartanburg. Converse flashes by, and Clifton, and then Cowpens—and a little bell rings in the memory. Gaffney, Blacksburg, Grover, Kings Mountain. (How sleep the men who fought there, at Cowpens, that this country might be free?) Blow the whistle now for Bessemer City, Gastonia, Lowell, Cramertown, Belmont, and you folks who are getting off at Charlotte better get ready for this train is going on—to Concord, Kannapolis and China Grove.

"Salass breeee," the man says. "High Point," "Greensboro," "Danville." (Is that the Danville that knew Casey Jones?) Now the little towns again. Chatham, Whittle, Gretna and Motley. Alta Vista, Clarion and Evington. Sweet Bay, Amherst, New Glasgow, Tye River, Arrington, Oak Ridge, Shipman and Elma, Rockfish, Faber, Coveseville, North Garden, Arrowhead and Hickory Hill.

"Charlottesville," the man calls, in the ghost-ridden Old Dominion, Proffit, Gilbert, Burnley, and Barboursville, Somerset, Montpelier, Orange and Rapidan. Mitchell, Winton, Culpeper and Brandy, Elkwood, Remington, Bealeton, Midland, Calverton, Catlett, Nokesville and Bristow.

Manassas now, and where are the Congressmen in their tall silk hats, riding out in their buggies with their ladies to watch the great victory that turned into great and frightening defeat. Clifton, Fairfax, Sideburn and Burke, Springfield, Edsall, Cameron, and the old, old town of Alexandria.

And far off across the Potomac Flats the domes and pillars, tombs and shafts, the beauty and the ugliness, the serenity and confusion of Washington.

It is a long ride, through the heart of the South, and I wish some day the railroads would hire a man to sit down and write a little history—telling the folks who ride their trains about the Indian fights and the fights with the British, and the Civil War battles, and all that has happened along their line. Tell the people how a town got its name. Motley, for example, named Sideburn—and who was old man Nokes, who gave his name to Nokesville? Give a man something to read and think about as he rides the train.

FRED OTHMAN

Stamp Collectors Are Having a Heyday

WASHINGTON—You never know these days, when you buy a three-cent stamp, what you're going to get. The poor old, overworked Post Office at the moment has 30 different varieties of three-centers on sale, of all shapes, colors and sizes, honoring such things as the discovery of gold, chickens, the statehood of Wisconsin, our friendship for Canada, youth (in a general way), and the Palomar telescope.

Next week goes on sale still another, which will indicate how deeply our Government cherishes America's volunteer firemen. Thereafter for two months there will be a new postage stamp every week, except for one week in November when there will be two.

Congress seemed to have worked overtime this year passing laws ordering new postage stamps and the Postmaster General is in a spot. Those stamps already off the presses and those still being designed for printing this year total 29. This is astounding. It also is a racket being perpetrated against stamp collectors by a reluctant Uncle Sam.

There is nobody loved by the Postmaster General as much as a stamp collector. This is the fellow who buys a sheet of stamps and pastes 'em in his album, forgets 'em, and gives the Government a clear profit on the whole works.

"But it looks like we are about to kill the goose that lays the golden eggs," reported a top Post Office official who said he's heard of stamp collectors being scalped by philatelic Congressmen. "Stamp collectors can absorb only so many new stamps. And when you get too many issues, none of them are worth collecting."

This hasn't come to pass yet and as of this moment the special issue stamp department has a sweet little business. It doesn't cost much to engrave a new postage stamp, and when it goes on sale for a day in a single city—usually the sponsoring Congressman's home town—the only added expense is the hiring of 50 extra workers in the Post Office there for about a week. This usually costs about $5,000. And then, who! Ponder never made such profits.

Take the Francis Scott Key stamp which recently went on sale for a day in Frederick, Md. The postmaster there handled 505,930 special envelopes and, in addition, sold 1,010,500 individual stamps for a net profit of about $25,000.

"And don't forget," said my Post Office expert, "that there are 12,000,000 stamp collectors in America. Many of them wrote in later to buy a few more of these stamps for themselves."

The chicken stamp, bearing the portrait of a white Leghorn and commemorating the poultry business, was placed on sale at New Haven, Conn., before an enthusiastic crowd of chicken and/or stamp fanciers. The Post Office hasn't yet counted its ill-gotten gains. My man said he figured the chicken stamp probably did as well as the Swedish pioneer stamp, or even the ones commemorating doctors and the Florida Everglades.

He said the Post Office Department resented recent criticism about the artistic quality of its stamps. They may not be Rembrandts, but then the old masters didn't have to turn out pictures at such a clip. All things considered, he believes our stamps are beautiful. The chicken stamp he calls magnificent. Even if it isn't modernistic.

I never saw a better-looking chicken myself. But what I'm really waiting to see is the postmaster's stamp, with the picture of Peter Stuyvesant, the first volunteer fireman in America, and two fire engines, one a hand pumper and the other a streamlined 1948 model, all in a superb shade of red.

ers and sisters were so distinctly European, their conduct so reminiscent of political wolf packs in the streets of European cities before Fascism, that one wondered whether Wallace was craftily trying to foment riots.

Such was the character of many of the crowd at his rally in the Yankee Stadium. A large proportion of these nasty juvenile delinquents were not voters at all. Wallace, a most moral fellow, may shrug off personal responsibility for the mischief obviously in the making among these bad young girls and men. It was the dirtiest crowd that ever befouled the Yankee Stadium. The management had exacted $6,000 for expenses in addition to $10,000 rent. Cleaning up the filth, chiefly millions of fragments of torn newspaper, cost all of the $6,000.

The final turnstile count was only 38,085 admissions at from 50 cents to $3.60, but even that shrunken figure is not trustworthy. The show had been rained out once and as the crowd gathered again the loudspeakers were informing all who had been disappointed the night before that they would be admitted even if they had forgotten or lost their stubs. Tickets were given away freely. Wallace's party may have paid the Government tax on paid admissions, taking a loss on free tickets so as to run up a deceptive appearance of a great gate. Traffic at the actual ticket windows was very small.

Like any promoter running a prizefight, Wallace withheld his main event, himself, in his dressing room from 9:30 until 11 while the collectors hustled the crowd for contributions. Many of the check contributions could have been faked, of course.

Editors in other cities may check his paid attendance accurately at the nearest Internal Revenue office. He is required to file sworn statements within 31 days after each performance.

At least three measures are sure to be big issues before the next General Assembly in Georgia in January, namely the Sales Tax, Home Rule and a Highway Board purporting to take roads out of politics. There will doubtless be others, but look for at least these three, and if interested, better begin talking to your representatives and let them know how you feel about these issues, so they will know how to represent you when the bills are introduced.

THE QUESTION: Why do you think Georgia's murder rate is the highest in the nation?

THE ANSWERS:

J. E. PATTERSON, 1046 Sanders Ave., S. E., air-conditioning engineer—Well—because the schools and police protection aren't good enough. Other states spend more for schools. Georgia has the lowest paid teachers and spends less per child than any other state in the union. Give the children plenty of playgrounds, plenty of hobbies—that'll cut the murder rate down.

FRED CHANDLER, 879 North Highland Ave., N. E., dental student—It's certainly not the lack of law enforcement—I don't think it's Georgia's fault, for it happened to settle in Georgia just like police happened to settle in North Carolina this Summer. It could happen anywhere. It certainly can't be blamed on the police force, for I think law is enforced very adequately here. Since coming to Atlanta, I've noticed different occasions where the police have acted commendably. I think that could have hit anyplace.

MRS. WALTER D. BLISS, 967 Lindbergh Dr., N. E., housewife—I'm just new in Georgia—been here a year and a half. I don't know how to account for it—except the police might have been on their toes like they ought to be. Part of it starts with juvenile delinquency which would be the foundation of crime. There is a mixture of people and races here—you might attribute the high crime rate to the clash of races.

HAYWOOD LANIER, 737 Cherokee Ave., S. E., electrician—I couldn't tell you—ask my wife. It couldn't be because of the name the state has—the Crack-er State? It doesn't have as much industry as other states have to keep people employed. If you are not employed, you are more likely to get out with the wrong crowd—get in trouble quicker that way.

ROBERT QUILLEN

Morally Responsible?

You may have become "morally responsible" at the age of 12, or even at the age of six, but you were in no wise to blame for what your early environment did to you.

From the day of your birth until you were 16 or thereabouts, every adult in your vicinity made assault upon your personality and shaped and twisted it to match his own notion of perfection. Consciously by precept or unconsciously by example they provided the stuff to make your character, and you absorbed it like a sponge.

If you were a genius or some other kind of a freak, you weren't much affected by any outside influence; but if you were an ordinary mill-runn youngster, bright or dull, that early environment shaped you for life. You didn't realize what was happening, and couldn't have done much about it in any case, so you deserve neither credit nor blame for the result.

But the effect of environment doesn't end at 16. Perhaps it never ends. In whatever kind of surroundings you find yourself, at 20 or 40 or any other age, you make use of the material within reach to continue building your personality. You still absorb what you touch. And though you may not realize what it is doing to you, the responsibility is yours alone, for you are free to leave if you don't like it.

Working among young people whose speech is foul, you pick up more or less verbal dirt; among those whose speech is clean, you unwittingly clean up your own vocabulary.

In a community where everybody is religious, you give some thought to your soul; in another environment, where nobody seems aware of religion, you also forget it.

Unless you are watchful and consciously stubborn, your style of dress and work habits and opinions and accent change to fit your background. It is a tendency inherited from the pick of our race, for only those survived who changed to match their environment.

Noble companions can make you noble; a petty and quarrelsome companion can make you equally petty.

You are "catching" your environment as you would the itch. If you don't wish to be like it, flee as from a plague.

THOMAS L. STOKES

Mr. Truman's Heavy Hair Shirt

WITH PRESIDENT TRUMAN—Herbert Hoover once spoke, in the midst of his troubles as President, of the hair shirt that he wore. His hair shirt has come to be known as the great depression. His self-pity was for the terrific burden he bore and the mounting dissatisfaction among the people. It seemed to be a recognition of the political difficulties that encompassed him and, for those who observed from outside, a forecast of the rising tide that did, indeed, eventually engulf him in the 1932 Roosevelt landslide.

Harry Truman, who started his administration with a promising, middle-of-the-road, era-of-good-feeling attitude, has learned some facts of life in his dealings with the Eightieth Congress, and has found out where the body is buried and who does what to whom, in brief, about the powerful economic interests that have used that Congress. In his own tenure in Congress they were under the bridle of Franklin D. Roosevelt. They since had come out in full force and cry, and he is the victim.

He seems to have undergone a conversion as a result of his experience, and the new convert is always more fervent. This may explain why he hits so hard now and in his own language, which is not, and cannot, be that of the polished statesman with the delicate still-letto touch which he certainly is not. He has to say it in his own crude way.

He seems now to believe sincerely that the forces with which he has had to contend are making ready to move in and take over the Government, and he has become a Jeremiah. He is making what he calls "a crusade to keep the Government in the hands of the people."

So he is pointing out the dangers, alerting the people, telling them who their enemies are and how they operate in Congress, and in a frantic way, beyond the immediate campaign and election, he also is seeking to outline the philosophy that the Democratic Party must follow if it is to rebuild itself into an effective political instrument for the future.

And then, along in July, after the Republicans had had convention and written a platform—which, in my opinion, is the most hypocritical document that has been put into writing—people began to understand that for three long years the President of the United States had succeeded to an almost impossible situation.

He went on to tell about the difficulties of reconversion to peace-time, especially with both the war in Europe and that of the Pacific ending ahead of the estimated time, and said that people generally did not understand how difficult this job was.

This bit of self-revelation at Denver may serve as a clue to answer the question as to whether President Truman really believes he can be re-elected, which is being discussed and argued, among others, by newspaper correspondents on this train. That question always is followed by another, which is if he knows he can't, then why such a strenuous campaign and why his strong leftward stand and his violent attacks on big business in lurid and shopworn phrases that smack of the demagogic?

It seems to be more than mere politics. That is, more than merely to arouse for this particular, desperate election drive those who in the last 16 years have supported the Democratic Party and given it election triumphs.

BUGS BAER

I'm a Republican this election just to see how they act in office. For 16 long years they have been on the road like a second company of Enoch Arden.

I have always preferred a bit of larceny to extravagance if it was less expensive. The taxpayer's money has more ways of disappearing than the look-out in a prairie dog village.

Your amateur office-holder will wreck you with improvements. Your good politicians take a little and leave a little. That's for the next fellow. Who may be themselves.

Bubblehead's Yankee Stadium Rally

NEW YORK—The rally of the Communists at the Yankee Stadium on the night of Sept. 10 was the official beginning of the presidential campaign of bubblehead Wallace in the State of New York. The entire folly curled up and died just eleven days later when El Stupo got up at a dinner at the Commodore Hotel and announced that he and Mrs. Wallace were planning to be "just plain bourgeois" after election day.

The Wallace episode of 1948 has been amusing and frightening, both. But on the profit side we find the fact firmly established at last that in 1940 Franklin D. Roosevelt and the sordid gang of political bums around him knowingly exposed the lustful people of the United States to the risk of incurring by his death a President who had secretly mingled with a dangerous cult of adventurers in black magic, dream-stuff and cosmic confusion. Until about 18 months ago, all the survivors of this bad crowd of common selfish professionals and treacherous schemers in Roosevelt's circle were able to keep this truth quiet. But Charlie Michelson, the press agent for the Democratic Party, in his memoirs couldn't resist the temptation to ridicule both Wallace and Harry Hopkins. He had been jealous of Hopkins and took occasion to deride Hopkins' alarm over the price of the nation of the goofy guru letters in 1940. He said they were of doubtful authenticity but he knew there was absolutely no doubt as to whether or not they were authentic, and he knew that Hopkins had good reason to be jumpy.

In failing to publish the information Michelson died loyal to an evil political force which may yet prove to have destroyed the integrity of the United States. We don't know yet whether the cement has crumbled. The same accusation of prior loyalty to Roosevelt's party lies against all the famous men and women, official and unofficial, some of them posing as silent wise guys and elders of the nation, who knew of this terrible situation but kept quiet. If all the evidence against Henry Wallace is true, and I am prepared to prove that most of it is, these people had a patriotic duty to dare the wrath of Roosevelt and warn the voters.

It was the worst default of civic and patriotic duty in the history of the United States. History will take note of the episode but perhaps without sufficient abhorrence of the conduct of the people, apparently at least a hundred of them. The soldier little notes nor long remembers the shell that didn't hit him.

Although Wallace speaks of building a "party" around himself for 1952, the danger from him expired after the four final years when the vain Roosevelt was hurrying to his doom. The danger ended in the 1944 convention. Wallace will not be useful even to the Communists in 1952. He is a sucked egg.

Rebecca West, the English writer, took a chance that American journalists avoided when she described the ugly people who formed the Wallace crowd at his "convention" in Philadelphia. I have no idea whether she is a beauty or less than such. But, however that may be, she was courageous and correct. The retorts that beauty is only skin-deep and that Miss West isn't no orchid had nothing to do with the fact that there was in this reckless, wanton, licentious mob of unsightly European continental slum creatures, and parroting bumptious American Negroes, these cuddling, neurotic wayward American campus girls, a loathsome mass personality. So many of the white or sallow broth-

As Long as I Live...

YES—I have a family just like you.

And I have my own hopes and ambitions for them—the kind of happy dream world in which we live while we work to make our dreams come true. And I am making those dreams come true—I will be doing that—as long as I live.

That's what hit me the other night while I sat in the bosom of my family—dreaming some dreams. "As long as I live" . . . but when I am gone—what? My insurance? Yes—our home? Yes—our savings and other assets? Yes—I will leave them everything . . . except the experience to protect, conserve, and manage those things so they will have a sufficient and continuous income—to make my dreams come true—even though I am gone.

My family—your family—why they are depending on us to protect them—not only now—but after we are dead. That's a pretty sobering thought—but it is off my mind. I have arranged a trust agreement at my bank. Now—should anything happen to me—my little family is in experienced, capable hands. Does this suggest anything to you?

Bulldogs Make Butts Seem Like Optimist

Well, there's one thing about it, the Georgia Bulldogs have little or no inclination to make a liar out of their coach, Mr. Wally Butts.

In fact, from what people tell us of their showing against Chattanooga last Saturday, the Bulldogs made Mr. Butts' preseason moaning sound downright optimistic. Things looked even worse than he pictured them.

The big question around town is "What's the matter with Georgia?" And the big answer, of course, is "Your guess is as good as mine."

It is pretty certain that the Georgia coaches don't know and neither do the players.

Messrs. Butts, Ears Whitworth and Bill Hartman gathered in a huddle at the end of Sanford Field Saturday after the Chattanooga game.

When the last man left the press box, they were still there, the gloom of dusk emphasizing their feelings about the whole thing.

Chattanooga's Showing The fact that something definitely is wrong with the Bulldogs doesn't detract from Scrapy Moore's Moccasin's showing against them. Chattanooga was well prepared and ready for the game. Its play was spirited and intelligent and the final score of 14-7 actually is a tribute to the popular Scrapy's ability.

But no matter how well Chattanooga played, the Moccasin's are still a "small" school and have no business playing anybody in the Southeastern Conference such a game.

All of which means just one thing, that there is plenty of work to be done in Athens this week and Georgia coaches and players undoubtedly will tackle their tremendous task with enthusiasm.

However, it just doesn't stand to reason that a club which looked so bad against Chattanooga can hope to improve enough in a week to make much of a contest against a North Carolina club which murdered Texas.

Leader Needed Getting down to a closer analysis of the Georgia situation, it appears that the one big trouble is the lack of a leader, a climax ballplayer who can rise to whatever heights the occasion demands. In other words, a boy like Trippi or Sinkwich or one of the old-timers like Buster Mott or Austie Downs.

The Bulldogs have some talent in their backfield. Fellows like Breezy Reid and Joe Geri and Al Bodine and John Rauch are good ballplayers. But they would be better if just one of them was the type mentioned.

Until somebody like that comes down the pike at Athens, Georgia isn't likely to regain its sensational winning form of three years ago.

Oh, this doesn't mean that the Bulldogs won't have a good football team, even this year. But it will be a team which has to score the hard way, which makes up in desperation for what it lacks in natural ability and it will be a club which makes a lot of mistakes.

In other words, it will be another 1947 team, better perhaps, but still lacking in certain basic requisites.

Two Fine Ones For the first time since we can remember, Tech and Georgia are playing major football games in direct competition with each other next Saturday.

It will be interesting to see just how many fans turn out. Right now it looks as if 35,000 will see Tech-Tulane and 45,000 Georgia-North Carolina.

If so, this will merely prove what we have suspected all along, that there are twice as many football fans in this neighborhood than we have seats for.

The country's financial condition may be tightening in other things, but so far, football hasn't felt it.

Ask the folks who handle the tickets.

Cleveland Bosses Confident of Victory

By JOE REICHLER

CLEVELAND—(AP)—One game in front and five to play, the pennant-starved Cleveland Indians, from Owner Bill Veeck, V. Pres. Hank Greenberg and Mgr. Lou Boudreau down, were confident today that the Tribe would win the American League pennant.

"We'll win," said Veeck. "We'll win because we have the best team in the league."

"We'll win," said Greenberg. "We'll win because we have the best pitching staff in the league."

"We'll win," said Boudreau. "We'll win because we have Bob Feller."

"We'll win," echoed Satchel Paige. "We'll win 'cause we just ain't gonna lose no more."

Alone in first for the first time since Aug. 25, the Indians were all set for their final five games of the season, all at home. The Chicago White Sox came here for a couple of games tonight and Wednesday. Thursday is an open start. And next Friday, Saturday and Sunday afternoons, the Detroit Tigers invade Municipal Stadium.

"Gene Bearden will work tonight against the White Sox," he said, "but instead of using Bob of the season, all at home. The Lemon Wednesday, we'll go along Chicago White Sox came here for a couple of games tonight and Wednesday. Thursday is an open start. And next Friday, Saturday and Sunday afternoons, the Detroit Tigers invade Municipal Stadium."

"Lemon will be in the bullpen today and Wednesday, ready for action at a moment's notice. And he'll start Friday. If we still haven't clinched the pennant after that game, it will be Bearden Saturday and Feller Sunday."

Ted Lyons, Manager of the last place White Sox, has announced he will pitch Lefty Frank Papish (2-8) against the Indians today. Bill Wight, another southpaw, will be available Wednesday. Papish is the gent who handed the Yankees an unexpected defeat last week. Wight (8-19) has a record of 0-3 against the Indians, but on two occasions was beaten, 4-0 and 1-0. Bearden (17-7) has a 1-1 record against the Sox.

Bucks Cash In On 'Screwy' Line Defense

COLUMBUS, Ohio — "Everybody's doing it," Coach Wes Fesler of Ohio State said yesterday as he discussed "screwy" football defenses.

Asked about the unorthodox front line maneuvering used by his Bucks in Saturday's 21-7 victory over favored Missouri, Fesler said:

"Well, we took a chance on that defense. We let 'em look at a line which looked like a seven-man affair. But as the ball was passed we tried to create offensive confusion by moving our boys about a bit. Sometimes our seven-man line, by the time the ball was moving, had only four or five men—or maybe nine. We kept changing it all the time."

With Southern California appearing here Saturday, Fesler said his Bucks had plenty of work to do to get in shape, especially pass defense.

Pass Defense Stressed by Bulldogs In Drill for Powerful Tarheels

By BOB CHRISTIAN

ATHENS—Despite a damp, chilly afternoon the Georgia Bulldogs began work yesterday for Saturday's battle with power-laden North Carolina with a determination to prevent a recurrence of last year's 14-7 Tarheel victory or Saturday's one-touchdown squeeze by Chattanooga.

Although the Bulldogs were in sweat clothes for the coldest day of the season, a great deal of time and attention was given to pass defense early in the drill. The Tarheels are particularly effective in the clutch with the aerial game. Coach Wallace Butts realizes that fact just as well as the Texas Longhorns, who left before Carl Snavely's eleven last Saturday.

Statistically speaking, the Bulldogs ranked ninth in the nation for breaking up enemy passes last year but that doesn't tell the story or take care of the 1948 schedule.

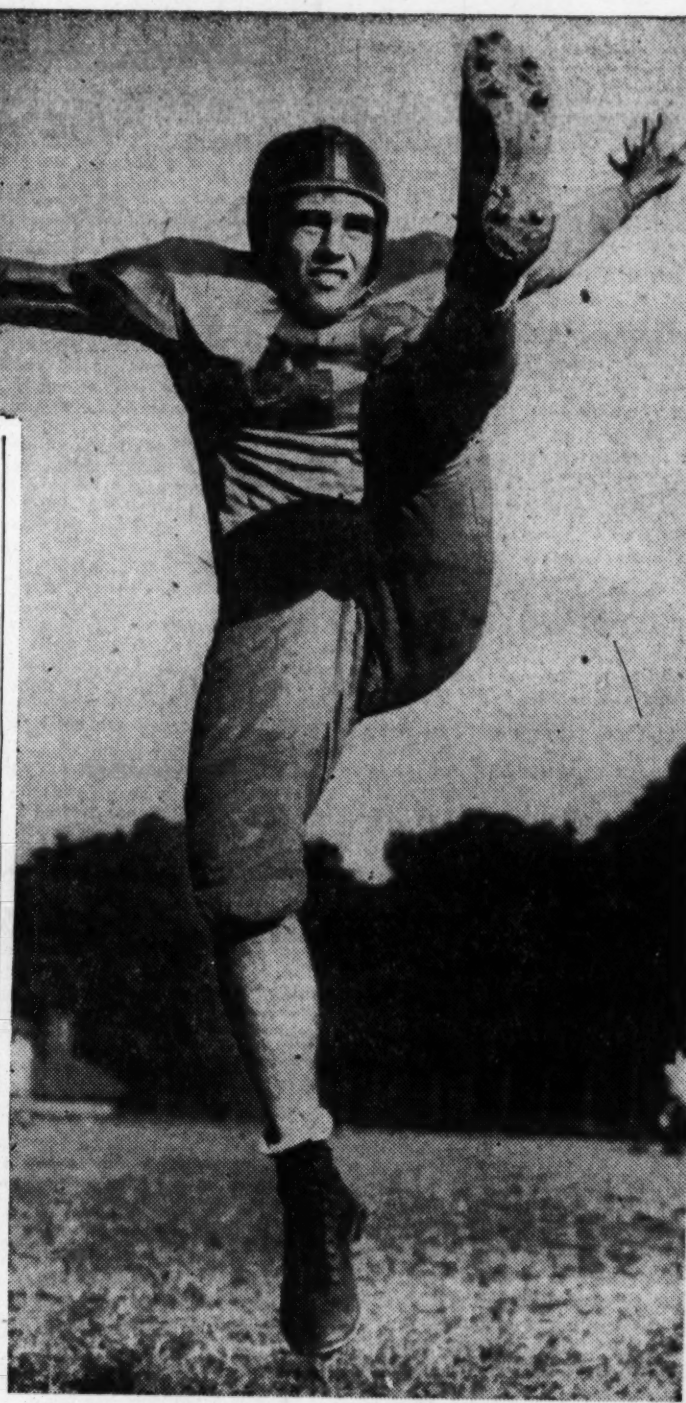

In last year's struggle at Chapel Hill Georgia saw a seven-point advantage turned into defeat when the Tarheels connected for pay dirt twice through the air in the last half. Against Texas three days ago, the Justice-powered Carolinians were successful with only seven of their 18 tosses but two "direct hits" went for touchdowns which in the end would have insured victory.

Not only do the Bulldogs have to worry about the aerials of Halfback Charlie Justice, but Hosea Rodgers, fullback, throws the pigskin around with about the same accuracy. That, as Coach Butts says, "makes trouble come in double doses, especially with them throwing to Ends Art Weiner and Bob Cox."

The North Carolina running attack is another headache for the Georgians, who had more trouble than anticipated Saturday with Scrapy Moore's battling Moccasin. Again, it is Justice and Rodgers that head the list of men that probably will bring on sleepless nights in Athens this week.

Backing up this duo of potential scorers every time they handle the ball is Johnny Clements, the ace of their reverse plays.

SHORT SIGNALS—Tarheel Mike Rublas kicked off barefooted against Texas. . . . Chan High 1932 tilt was a 6-6 tie. . . . Charles (Beefy) Eaves, 1945 Georgia captain and more recently head mentor at Athens High, has returned to the University to complete work on his degree.

SMITH STAR—Conrad Moon, Smith's triple-threat fullback, gets off a booming punt. Moon, probably the best City League back, is the man Roosevelt will have to stop in top prep game of the week at Grady Thursday night.

Justice Selected 'Hero of Week'

By International News Service

Charles (Choo-Choo) Justice yesterday was ranked as the South's "Gridiron Hero of the Week."

The sports staff of International News Service elected Justice, in the first of its weekly "hero" selections, for his performance in leading North Carolina to a thumping 34-7 victory over Texas.

Justice was a factor in four of North Carolina's five touchdowns.

Wildcats Top SEC Scorers

By International News Service

Two Kentucky Wildcats led SEC football scorers today after tabulation of results in the first major week-end of play.

Wallace (Wah-Wah) Jones, who plays end and All-American brand of basketball, scored two touchdowns against Xavier. Clifton Webb, a substitute fullback, did so, too.

With eight points to their credit, Georgia's Joe Geri and Alabama's Ed Saleem were runners-up. Each scored a touchdown on a pair of extra points.

Don Black Shows Signs Of Recovery

By International News Service

CLEVELAND—(P)—Cleveland Indian Pitcher Don Black, who suffered a brain hemorrhage Sept. 13, has made the greatest recovery in the last 24 hours. Dr. Edward B. Castle, Cleveland club physician, said yesterday.

Dr. Castle said the hurler has become more rational and now is "groping for thoughts." He still is not aware of the tribute paid him last Wednesday night at the stadium, when approximately $40,000 was raised in his behalf.

At that game—between Boston and Cleveland—net receipts over a 25,000 attendance figure were donated to Black and his family.

Dr. Castle also said the injured pitcher probably ended Black's baseball career and that he might undergo surgery later on.

Contenders in American Square Off for Stretch

By JOHN CHANDLER Associated Press Sports Writer

After one day of rest in the torrid American League pennant chase, the three contenders square away again today for the final week of play and a crack at the National League Champion Boston Braves in the World Series opening a week from Wednesday.

The nerve-fraying stretch drive between the Cleveland Indians, Boston Red Sox and New York Yankees will continue on three widely scattered fronts. Each club has just five games left to play in a "don't-spore-the-horses" finish the like of which the junior loop has rarely experienced.

The Indians definitely are in the saddle now to cop their first flag since 1920, riding along on a one-game bulge over the Yankees and Red Sox, tied for second place.

With all clubs in both leagues idle Monday, the shouting ended in the National League as Boston clinched the pennant Sunday, this was the situation in the American loop:

	w.	l.	pt.	gb.	play
Cleveland	55	56	.524	1	5
Boston	52	57	.477	1	5
New York	52	57	.477	1	5

Three also-rans, the Chicago White Sox and the Washington Senators and the Philadelphia Athletics, can gum up the works further beginning today.

The Indians, with all of their remaining games at home, meet the White Sox in the first of a two-game series tonight. Tribe Manager Lou Boudreau says flatly his gang is in and he could be 100 percent correct.

"I sincerely believe we're in now," the shortstop-pilot said after Bob Feller defeated Detroit Sunday while New York whipped Boston in their finale at Yankee Stadium.

The Yankees open a three-game set with the Athletics in Philadelphia this afternoon, while the Red Sox and Washington play the first of three games at Boston.

Cleveland can clinch the flag by taking five straight, no matter what Boston and New York do. The Indians could drop two games and still the Yanks and Red Sox would have to win five in a row to grab the bunting. What's more, New York and Boston will be cutting each other's throats again in a two-game series winding up the season at Hubtown Saturday and Sunday.

"While I am not discounting the Yankees' chances," Boudreau said, "I think we have more to fear from Boston than from New York. Athletics to the Philadelphia Athletics to the Yankees. By the same token, I don't believe the Red Sox can take the Yankees in both games at Boston."

That means if we win four of the remaining five games from Chicago and Detroit, we'll win the flag. I feel confident we can do that."

Boudreau said he would send fifty Gene Bearden to the hill to try for his 18th victory against the White Sox tonight. The rookie has lost seven games this season. Frank Papish (2-8), who beat the Yankees last week when they could have tied for first, is the White Sox choice.

Joe Dobson (16-9) is expected to get the call from Manager Joe McCarthy in the Boston opener with Washington, while the Senators lead with their ace, Rae Scarborough (13-8).

"I will start Vic Raschi, looking for his 20th, in the opener at Shibe Park," Yankee Pilot Bucky Harris declared. "Beyond that, I don't want to do any talking. Perhaps Frank Shea will be ready. Maybe I will go with Allie Reynolds in the Wednesday game."

Connie Mack, who said he wanted to see "the best team win the flag," has his mound corps fully rested after several days of idleness. Either Carl Scheib (13-8) or Lou Brissie (14-10) is expected to face the Yankees in the opener. St. Louis and Detroit meet in the other American League tilt today.

RECALLED — Charles Silveira, young Portland catcher who was with the New York Yankees in Spring training, was recalled yesterday by the Yanks. He may be needed to replace the injured Gus Niarhos.

In the National, where the Braves are celebrating their first pennant in 34 years, a full four-game program also is slated. Boston travels to Brooklyn to meet the Dodgers, and Manager Billy Southworth, of the new champions, says there will be no letdown.

"We'll play out the last of our league string as hard as if the pennant hinged on every game," he said.

THE PREPARADE

Bass Roosevelt Quit Building Character

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

One thing that early games in the City League football season have brought out crystal clear is that they have quit building character at Bass and Roosevelt High.

If any mamas per chance are reading this and throwing up their hands in horror, we don't mean to imply that their clean-cut youngsters at Roosevelt and Bass are not being given the same high-type leadership as before. It is just that schools that lose almost all their grid games every year are always said to be "building character."

Bass and Roosevelt, far down in the City League well last year, have been the surprises of the instant year and certainly will not be classed with the "character building" schools for 1948. They will win their share unless we are sadly mistaken.

The strength of the Brown High team also has been a big surprise, but the Johnny Rebs were hardly building character in 1947, they having won the league crown and even having beaten State champion Lanier in one outing.

In Danger This Week

Perhaps Bass and Roosevelt will not have long to revel in the glory of being rated the twin surprise packages of the season as both will be into the most rugged of opposition this week. Swede Phillips' Blue Wave will tangle with Roy Rollins' Richmond Academy on Friday in the first afternoon game ever played in Grady Stadium. The Augusta folks not only slaughtered the Wave last season but are favored to win the second region AA crown this outing. The Augustans, who bashed Elberton 48-0, in their opener last Friday, have one of the best fullbacks I have seen for several years in Derwent Langley.

O. V. Bruner's Roosevelt eleven will mix it at Grady Stadium Thursday night with Cecil Moon's Smith powerhouse, ranked number one in the City League before the year began. There is small doubt about the Smithies having the brawn to knock the other folks sprawling, but they don't have the "cuteness" of Bass, Roosevelt and Murphy. They don't have good passing and don't go in for deception much.

What Caused Changes?

Why are Bass and Roosevelt so vastly improved this year? That's hard to say. The Wave backed out of George Burns, Jimmy Ransbottom, Bobby Keel and Marshall Akers was ever dangerous in 1947. Coach Phillips has changed his offense radically this time and the result is the Wave attack is extremely deceptive. Add to that the fact Akers and Burns have shown tremendous improvement.

Keel, a tackling fool for his 150 stumpy pounds, and Jim Waterhouse, known as Jim Axtman last year, won't have many peers in the highly important line backing department. Big Jim Robertson, 205-pound tackle, and Calvin Abernathy, rated by Phillips with the best ends in town, and some of the other linemen are vastly improved.

"They say we have the same boys back this time, but that's not true," says Phillips. "They just have the same names. Some of them are real football players this year."

How About Roosevelt?

Roosevelt was the talk of the town after beating Jordan, 21-13, but lost some prestige by bowing to Newport, 19-12. However, the Kentuckians were a very good ball club. The Smith game this week should answer the question: "Is Roosevelt really that good?"

The Crimson Tide is dangerous chiefly because it has so many guys, some of which have not fired too well to date. Bruner has seven boys who can pass at least fairly well, one of those, Bob Dawkins, being a left-hander.

Bob Dendy to date has been one of the best runners and passers to show here, and Ray (Nig) Newsome proved he could "take off" with a great scoring run against Jordan. Bob Hornbuckle, one of the State's fastest trackmen, is a real comer. Richard Bush and Cecil Shirley can lug and throw the thing, too, and Johnny Love, expected to be the best of them all, has yet to hit his stride. Johnny Carson long has been rated the best offensive end in these parts, but Clem Knight, at the other flank, is the most improved lineman we've seen. He tackles with no little bit of authority. Duane York smashed down Newport carriers the way a good guard should, and Jerry Burton proved his class at center in the Jordan fray. (Bill Zink, the other first-string guard, was hurt at Newport and will miss this week's clash.)

The Crimson line may fade as the season goes on, or may make the Brunermen real contenders. It's improved, but still a question mark. The Smith game should bring most of the answers, but until then chalk up Roosevelt and Bass as 1948's number one surprises.

Braves Get Okay To Use Sanders In World Series

BOSTON. (AP)—The Boston Braves yesterday received permission to use First Baseman Ray Sanders, recently recalled from Hartford, of the Eastern League, as a substitute for the ailing Jim Russell in the World Series.

Braves General Manager John Quinn said he was notified by Commissioner Chandler that the three possible American League series contenders have agreed to the substitution.

Centerfielder Russell has been out of action for two months. He was being treated at Mercy Hospital, Pittsburgh, for a streptococcus infection.

TULANE OFFENSIVE ACE—Biggest gun in the Green Wave attack is Fullback Eddie Price, who packs plenty of wallop and plenty of speed in his 5-foot-11-inch 188-pound frame. He was the Greenies' leading ground gainer last year and seems well on his way to repeat if his fine showing against Alabama last Saturday can be continued. He and his mates will take on Georgia Tech's Yellow Jackets at Grant Field next Saturday afternoon.

Tech To Work on Kicks And Aerial Defenses

By GEORGE TISINGER

Kicking and aerial defenses will get the major share of attention this week during practices of the Georgia Tech footballers for Tulane, which is coming to town for a contest Saturday at the Flats.

The all-afternoon rain yesterday slowed the Tech practice schedule and work was confined to some track circling and calisthenics in sweat clothes.

However, if the rain clouds will be co-operative today a good bit of work is on the agenda.

Coaches yesterday re-expressed their satisfaction at coming through the Vanderbilt game without any injuries. They know how bad something like that would be if it struck at one or two key spots.

They expressed themselves well pleased with the ground defenses set up by the Jackets in the Commodore game but said that their pass defenders would get a lot of extra time this week.

"We know Tulane is a much improved team over last year," Coach Bobby Dodd said. "We know Ed Price is one of their better and hardest running backs and that they have a lot of speed which they will most surely use to every advantage against us."

Dodd said that scouting reports tell them that they can expect a lot of football in the air with Tulane's fine quarterback, Joe Ernst, on the throwing end.

Ernst, a New Orleans boy, figured prominently in all three of the Green Wave's scores last Saturday against Alabama. He heaved for 21 and 20 yards to get the first Wave touchdown drive moving and then shoveled one to Bob Jones who traveled the remaining seven yards with it for the score.

Quarterback Ernst tossed another one, good for eight yards, to Jimmy Gilson to set up the second Tulane tally. It was a 20-yard zoomer to Dick Sheffield which accounted for the third score.

Another thing Dodd and his assistants are looking out for is the fine kicking of the Greenies' Euel Davis, a tackle who got in plenty of good toe work last Saturday. In addition to punting some of the finest things you'll want to see, he converted after all three touchdowns with the greatest of ease.

If the Jackets can just get out on the practice field they have a much longer practice schedule ahead of them this week than they had originally planned. Asst. Coach Ray Ellis said yesterday that even if it does rain this afternoon the Techs move than likely will be out anyway.

Casey Says Dodgers To Release Him

CHARLESTON, S. C.—(AP)—eran righthander, last night told the News and Courier he will be given his unconditional release from the club at the end of the season. He predicted he would sign with the New York Giants next season.

Casey stopped here to visit friends on his way to Jacksonville, where he will fish for several weeks. After that he will return to the tavern he operates in Brooklyn, he said.

A 10-year man in the majors, Casey said Branch Rickey, head of the Dodgers organization, will give him his unconditional release when the present season ends. Casey said "I hinted about a job to Durocher (Leo Durocher, manager of the Giants) and he said 'anytime.' Durocher managed the Dodgers until he signed with the Giants earlier in the season. 'I've always been a Durocher man all the way through,' Casey said.

By obtaining his unconditional release, Casey, 33, will be able to command a buying price from the Club that engages his services. He was troubled with a back ailment this season and was out of the Dodger line-up for some time.

Polio Wave Hits Another Eleven

FARMINGDALE, N. Y.—(AP)—Long Island Agricultural and Technical College suspended athletic competition temporarily yesterday after three football players were stricken with polio.

Athletic Director Gerald D. Allard said the scheduled football game with Adelphi Saturday and soccer game with Brooklyn would not be played.

A contest with the University of Bridgeport was cancelled last weekend.

Allard listed the stricken players as Richard Hoffman, end, of Garden City, N. Y.; Guili N. Capelli, halfback, of Ossining, N. Y.; and Gene Ferrero, end, of Amityville, N. Y.

Crimson Tide Works Lightly

TUSCALOOSA.—(AP)—Alabama worked lightly in the rain yesterday as Coach Harold (Red) Drew sought to correct mistakes made in last week's loss to Tulane.

Bob Cochran, left halfback, was on crutches and may not be able to go against Vandy at Mobile Saturday. Otherwise, the squad was in good physical condition.

Drew scheduled a stiff workout for today. The ball handlers came in on a rain-soaked field in an effort to eliminate the fumbles which were costly last week.

East Lake Women's Meet Opens Today

Play in the East Lake Women's Club Championship Golf tournament will open today with a field of 22 players entered.

Peggy Guide and Rosalie Mayer tied for the qualifying medal, each posting a score of 92. Jane Sharkey, last year's winner, will not defend her crown, it was announced yesterday by Mattie Tumlin, tournament chairman.

The pairings: CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT—Rosalie Mayer vs. Lorraine Vicknair; Mrs. Fred Bellinger vs. Mrs. L. H. Kelly; Peggy Guide vs. Mrs. T. B. Robertson; and Mrs. Larry Marx vs. Mrs. Rufus Youngblood. FIRST FLIGHT—Mrs. H. F. Wiedeman vs. Mrs. Roger Martin; Mrs. C. D. Fields vs. Mrs. J. W. Welch; Mrs. J. G. Wilburn vs. Mrs. William B. Oliver; and Mrs. M. E. Henley vs. Mrs. J. C. Wright. SECOND FLIGHT—Mrs. Alex Wilson vs. Mrs. Hugh Wilson; Mrs. M. T. Branch vs. Mrs. T. E. McGeachy vs. Mrs. S. R. Noworthy; and Mrs. George Guiler, bye.

SAO PAULO, Brazil.—(AP)—Mario Gonzales won the Brazilian Open tourney Sunday with a score of 270 for the 72 holes. Frank Stranahan was second with 272.

CHATTANOOGA.—(AP)—The Baylor School for Boys has closed because of a polio outbreak among its football team.

The fourth case was diagnosed as polio yesterday at Atlanta where Pat Brooks, former Valdosta star, is confined to a hospital. Other students stricken include Hugh Chapman, of Spartanburg, S. C., team captain, who has both polio and spinal meningitis. His condition is serious.

Herbert Barks, Baylor headmaster, said it will be necessary to "wait and see how far this thing goes before we can make any plans for reopening of school." He had originally announced the prep school would be closed for two weeks, beginning Sept. 20.

They must have the practice on certain weak spots, he said. And now that they have whipped several colds which bobbed up on the squad the rain might not hurt their players even if it does continue falling.

GRID BRIEFS

Knee Operation May Sideline Vol Back for Rest of Season

Tennessee's shattered football forces received another jolt yesterday when it was learned that Blocking Back Orvis Milner probably will be lost for the remainder of the season. Milner, first-string quarterback, underwent a knee operation for loose cartilage in the right knee. His loss leaves the Vols with only one experienced blocking back—Jack Armstrong.

At Auburn, Coach Earl Brown sent his Tigers through a light drill in preparation for their homecoming engagement with Louisiana Tech Saturday. It will be the lone home appearance for the Plainsmen this year.

In sharp contrast to most of the coaches, Peahead Walker pushed his Wake Forest Deacons through a two and a half hour session. The Deacons got the works in a scrimmage, both offensive and defensive, as they sharpened up for the coming clash with William and Mary. Clemson Coach Frank Howard thinks he has uncovered another backfield star to go along with Bobby Gage in young Jack Calvert, a triple-threat from Spartanburg, S. C. The Tigers meet North Carolina State this weekend.

Coach Rex Enright concentrated on pass defense at Columbia as his South Carolina Gamecocks worked for their Saturday engagement with Furman. . . . At Raleigh, Beattie Peathers gave his Wolfpack a light day, recovering from their grueling tie with Duke. . . . Three Arkansas players, Center Ray Thomas, Guard Theron Roberts and End Jim Cox, will miss the Razorbacks from conference game with TCU Saturday due to injuries.

Ralph Graham closed the practice gates at Manhattan, Kan., yesterday as his Kansas State squad sought to whip up something that will snap their 27-game losing streak. Kansas State meets Iowa State in a Big Seven Conference tiff Saturday. Michigan, which had a severe scare from Michigan State last week, spent a long session correcting mistakes. . . . Gene Derricotte, Wolverine left halfback, may miss the coming Oregon game with a knee injury. Hawaii arrived at East Lansing, Mich., and shared the same practice field with Michigan State. The two clubs clash Saturday.

Pitt Works for Irish PITTSBURGH.—(AP)—The Pitt Panthers went through a hard workout yesterday in preparation for the visit of Notre Dame Saturday in a game which will attract a sellout crowd of 64,000.

NEW ORLEANS.—(AP)—Coach Henry Frnk began preparing Tulane yesterday for Georgia Tech's "T" formation offense.

While the Green Wave was stemming Alabama's Crimson Tide, 21-14, last Saturday, the Techmen blanked Vanderbilt, 13-0, mainly through the use of aerials. Frnk hoped to fashion an air defense by Saturday to halt Joe Brown and Jim Southard, Yellow Jackets who were prominent in the triumph over the Commodores.

The Green Wave took it easy yesterday to permit recovery of injuries received in the Alabama game, but full days of heavy-duty work are expected today and Wednesday. Tulane will entrain for Atlanta Friday.

Injured halfbacks Bill Svoboda and Ray Prats may be able to see action against the Techmen. The 200-pound Svoboda turned an ankle last week, while Prats broke a thumb half-way through Fall practice.

Musial, Mize, Kiner Neck-Neck in Bat Race

NEW YORK—(AP)—It looks like Stan Musial, Johnny Mize and Ralph Kiner are going to battle right down to the wire for the top slugging honors in the National League.

With only a week of the season to go, the three power hitters are closer than a T-formation quarterback and his line in the race for the home runs and runs-batted-in titles.

Here's the way they stand today: Home runs: Kiner, 40; Mize, 39; Musial, 37. Runs batted in: Musial, 126; Mize, 124; Kiner, 118.

Kiner and Mize wound up in a tie in the homer derby last year. Each hit 51. If Musial should cop both the slugging crowns along with his firsts in batting, runs, hits, doubles and triples, he will become the first player ever to make such a sweep.

His .378 batting mark, three points over last week, already has assured him of succeeding Philadelphia's Harry Walker as the hitting champ. Closest to him is Philadelphia's Richie Ashburn, who is finished for the year. The Philly rookie has a .333 mark.

Musial also is far in front in runs, hits and triples. He leads Philadelphia's Del Ennis in doubles, 43 to 40. The great Card batsman has scored 131 runs, collected 223 hits, and has smashed 18 triples.

Behind Musial and Ashburn in the Big Ten are Alvin Dark, Boston, .324; Tommy Holmes, Boston, and Country Slaughter, St. Louis, .321 each; Dixie Walker, Pittsburgh, .319; Andy Pafko, Chicago, and Jeff Heath, Boston, .317 each; Sid Gordon, New York, .301, and Jackie Robinson, Brooklyn, .300.

Ashburn seems a cinch to wind up as the stolen base leader with 128 each for Brooklyn's Rex Barney and Boston's Johnny Sain.

Brecheen also is second in the pitching percentages to Pittsburgh's Rip Sewell. The Pirate veteran has a 13-3, .813 mark, compared to 19-7, .723 for Brecheen.

Pirates Release Hurler Steve Nagy

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates announced last night the outright release of southpaw pitcher Steve Nagy to San Francisco of the Pacific Coast League. He is the first of three players to be given to the Seals in the purchase price for Bill Werle, another southpaw recently purchased from the Pacific Coast League club by the Bucs.

High School Halfback Dies of Broken Neck

DENVER—(AP)—Harvey Graff, 16, a football halfback, died yesterday of injuries suffered in practice last Wednesday. Denver General Hospital doctors said a fractured neck caused his death. The boy was hurt in tackling a teammate at Manual Training High School.

Conniver To Run in Ladies' 'Cap

NEW YORK—(AP)—Conniver the Maryland filly with the misleading name, goes after her ninth victory in 14 starts this season today in the $50,000 Ladies' Handicap at Belmont Park.

Just about the hottest handicap performer in training, the four-year-old daughter of Discovery heads a field of 11 prominent fillies and mares in the mile and one-half gallop.

A victory this time not only would add another $41,600 to Owner Harry La Montagne's bank account, but virtually assure Conniver's selection for seasonal honors in her division—if not in the entire handicap section for all horses.

The filly was purchased for a paltry $2,500 from A. G. Vanderbilt in the 1945 Meadow Brook Sales.

Idle since Sept. 11, when she won the $6,300 Beldame Handicap at Aqueduct, Conniver will face many of the same in the Belmont event which is being run for the seventy-eighth time.

Calumet Aces Set for Big Belmont Race

NEW YORK—(AP)—Calumet Farm General Manager Ben Jones said yesterday Coaltown would join Citation in the $25,000-added Sycamore Mile at Belmont Park Wednesday.

The race, first for Citation since he arrived in the East from Chicago early this month, was won by another Calumet horse—Armed—last year.

Coaltown won the Jerome Handicap at Belmont Sept. 15, his last time to the post.

Jimmy Jones, Calumet trainer, said Eddie Arcaro was scheduled to ride Citation, and Newbold Leroy Pierson would be aboard the No. 2 horse.

Tulsa's Al Vincent Finds Soap Is High

TULSA—(AP)—Al Vincent, manager of Tulsa's Texas League baseball club, ruefully reported to sheriff's deputies yesterday he had paid $100 for a box of soap worth one dollar.

He was driving into town when a roadside soap salesman flagged him down. After listening to a brief sales talk, the baseball man decided to buy $1 worth.

Vincent took the soap, gave the man a bill and drove on. Later, checking his pocketbook, he found he had shelled out a $100 bill instead of $1.

The deputies found no soap nor peddler.

pledged to vote for their Party nominees.

Section 4 states that electors shall cast their votes in the electoral college for their party nominees for President and Vice President.

Sen. Millican agreed at the Senate's committee meeting that the Senate's instructions to electors after they are in the electoral college might be unconstitutional in view of Federal laws.

He argued that pledging electors before they are elected, however, was not unconstitutional. Sen. H. N. Ramsey, of Springfield, said he favored letting the electors go uncommitted.

Millican, in explaining his bill to the Committee, said it would permit voters to vote a split ticket, casting ballots for a Democratic slate of State officers while at the same time voting for Wallace, Dewey, Truman or Thurmond for President.

Republican State Chairman Roscoe Turner appeared before the Committee, asking it to amend Section 7(a) of the 1946 Legislature's resolution 42 which gives Secretary of State Ben Fortson, Jr., the duty of ruling on party disputes when parties received less than 150,000 votes in the previous general election.

Fortson this Spring ruled that Tucker's faction did not represent the Republican Party in Georgia. The ruling was reversed by the Republican National Convention.

Tucker's request was held by Committee Chairman Sen. Alex H. S. Weaver, of Macon, to be outside the scope of the Legislature at this session.

Tucker also suggested broadening the bill's second section relating to the five percent law so that candidates for State offices as well as for President and Vice President might get on the general election ballot without filing petitions from five percent of the voters.

"I'm unalterably opposed to such a thing," Sen. E. C. Wideman, of Douglas, announced.

Both the Senate and House will meet at 11 a. m. today. The Senate will hear the election bill read for the second time while the House, which attended only to formalities yesterday, will again remain idle.

On Wednesday, the election bill will come up for passage in the Senate. Sen. Millican at that time may offer a technical change in the second section clarifying the proposed change in the five percent law so that it will apply to electors as well as directly to presidential and vice-presidential candidates.

If passed, the bill will go to the House the same day and probably to the House Committee on the State of the Republic for action that afternoon or the next morning.

Final passage of the bill could not be accomplished until Friday after the House completes action and returns it to the Senate for voting on any suggested amendments.

2 Jet Bombers Faster Than Jet Fighters

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Air Force disclosed yesterday it has two jet bombers faster than early jet fighters. It rated one bomber at more than 600 miles an hour.

This is the Boeing B-47 strato-jet, a six engine warplane of radical design about the size and weight of the B-29 superfortress. It will be produced at Boeing's Wichita, Kans., plant.

The other speedy bomber is the North American B-45, a four-engine jet of conventional shape weighing 41 tons and rated in the "550 MPH class."

Air Force Secretary Symington disclosed in New York Saturday that a jet bomber "ran away from fighters," but gave no details. Other Air Force officials released additional information yesterday.

The B-47 probably is faster than the F-80C and may be faster than the Republic F-84 thunderjet. However, it is not likely to match the speed of the North American F-86, which recently raised the world's speed record to 670 miles an hour without using full power.

The Navy announced today it has ordered a new "compound" engine which will add 15 percent to the range of search and attack planes. The engine is known as the "Turbo-Cyclops 18" and was developed by Wright Aeronautical Corporation, Woodbridge, N. J. The engine is basically the one used in the B-29 superfortress.

Taft Coming Here for GOP

WASHINGTON—(UP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft, Republican, Ohio, who wanted to be President himself, will ask Southern voters to support the Dewey-Warren ticket in a series of "Deep South" speeches, Republican headquarters announced yesterday.

Taft will begin his Southern invasion with a nationwide broadcast at Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 11. From Nashville Taft will swing southeast for speeches in Atlanta, Ga., and St. Petersburg, Fla. Headed back north, he will put in appearances in Western North Carolina and at Winchester, Va. He will wind up his tour at Dallas, Texas.

Yeagan Appointed Stetson Region Chief

Yeagan, sales representative with the hat concern 15 years, as Manager of the Southeastern Sales Region with headquarters in Atlanta. He has been Company representative in Alabama and sections of Florida, Georgia and Tennessee.

MUSHROOM VICTIM—A Romanian Embassy spokesman in Turkey says that Romanian Ambassador Grigor Moisil died yesterday of "food poisoning."

This report came a few hours after Turkish Government sources said that Moisil had decided to become a political refugee and move to Switzerland. . . . In San Francisco, Attorney Wayne Collins, counsel for "Tokyo Rose," threatened to file a restraining order to prevent Government agencies from "violating the civil rights" of his client. . . . President Klement Gottwald of Czechoslovakia failed to return on schedule from his "vacation" in Russia. Red officials waited fruitlessly two times at the Prague Airport. . . . Resignations of Iraq's Defense Minister and of her Ambassador to Washington were announced yesterday.

ON THE ROAD—The sister of Franz Lehár says the noted Austrian composer is out of danger and seems well on the road to recovery. . . . Mrs. Nancy Chereb, 27, who recently received a suspended three-month sentence on a vice charge, left by plane from New York for Casablanca with her husband, George A. Chereb, and their five-year-old son, John, to visit her father, C. Paul Fletcher, U. S. Consul at Casablanca. . . . Mrs. Oksana S. Kasenkina, who jumped from the Soviet Consulate in New York Aug. 12, should be able to receive members of a House un-American Activities Subcommittee in her hospital room by next Monday, her physician says. . . . Rosemary Murphy, 23-year-old daughter of U. S. Ambassador Robert Murphy, will be featured in a German movie now being filmed at Munich.

MYSTERY COMEDY ENTERTAINING 'Ghost Train' Gives Traicher Fitting Role

By PAUL JONES
I don't recall ever seeing any performance in Atlanta which was received with the spontaneity of applause and the wholehearted satisfaction which greeted the opening of The Stage's howling version of Arnold Ridley's mystery-comedy, "Ghost Train," at the Woman's Club Auditorium last night.

The hearty laughs, the tremendous applause which rang out at the curtain and the manner in which all of the performers were inspired to carry out this show with a maximum of speed, excellent timing and grand humor is a rare experience I think more than 500 first nighters enjoyed.

Certainly "Ghost Train," with Arthur Traicher headlining the cast, was one of the most entertaining comedies of the past several seasons. Without Traicher in the cast, I doubt it would have been as funny. The veddy, veddy British comedian came through with a gem of a performance.

"Ghost Train" is a delightful farce. It is corny, suspenseful, funny, tragic and always entertaining. It moves fast and holds everyone's interest at all times. The story is about a series of hallucinations experienced by first this one, then that one, and how these weird experiences play on the lives of an assortment of characters who are trapped in a small railroad station for one night.

As Traicher said in an amusing curtain talk, he was not the whole show. Without Don Gibson, Walter Munroe, Helen Harris, Hugh Williams, Nancy Gordon, Elsiebeth Hofmann, Gene Galvin, Cele McLaughlin, his performance would not have clicked. They all worked like a team, which gives credit to Director Hudson Faussett's direction.

may be visited upon mankind."

2—"It is better to have our difficulties now than to live in a fool's paradise."

3—"Indicating that he saw the end of UN unless the East-West conflict could be solved, he said, 'If we cannot proceed on a world basis as we have hoped, we must proceed on a regional basis. We must work with those whom we can work with.'"

Here is the way the double veto might work in the Berlin dispute: Russia could vote against admission of the issue to the Security Council agenda and then argue that her negative vote was a veto.

If the other Council members challenge this, Russia then would use the veto again to override their challenge. Under the UN Charter, the veto does not apply to questions of procedure, but does apply if there is a difference among the Big Powers over whether a question is procedural.

Bevin's was a typical crisis speech, delivered with such emotion his voice broke at intervals. The impact was electrifying and the 58 delegates—except for those from the grim-faced Soviet bloc—gave him a noisy ovation. Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky took notes throughout and strode out of the chamber at the conclusion.

The rain last night kept police and Grady Hospital physicians busy.

Four people were treated at Grady for injuries suffered in automobile mishaps which police attributed partially to the rain and poor visibility.

Patrick Doyle, 39, of Atlanta, suffered cuts and an arm injury when he was knocked down by a taxicab at Spring and Cain Streets; Floyd Dekinder, 20, of 1237 Oak Street, S. W., was injured when the motor scooter he was riding collided with a truck on Bishop Street; Ashburn Kilpatrick, 69, of 1521 Olympia Way, and legs in an accident at Pine

Rep. I. H. Hall Succumbs to Heart Attack

Rep. I. Howell Hall, of Treutlen County, prominent South Georgia banker and farmer, died yesterday afternoon of a heart attack in his room at a local hotel.

Rep. Hall and several other Assembly members were in the room discussing legislative matters, according to City Dets. J. M. Pack and J. W. Ellington, who said Hall was stricken. His colleagues said he complained of indigestion and lay down on his bed. A physician was called, but Hall died before medical aid could reach him, they said.

Mr. Hall had represented Treutlen County in the House for two terms, and had served on important House Committees. His present term of office was to have ended the first of January. He did not seek re-election in the recent primary.

Speaker Pro Tem Charles Smith, II, said an escort would be named to attend the funeral.

Representing the neighboring county of Emanuel, Smith said Hall and he had been close personal friends for years. He lauded Hall's legislative ability and said he was a high-type gentleman, a quiet person who was loved by people who knew him.

Rep. Hall is survived by his wife; his son, Robert, a law instructor at Emory University, and a brother, J. E. Hall, of Soperton.

George's Speech On Savannah Part of Exhibit

Constitution Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON — The address delivered by Senator George, of Georgia, opening the exhibition held at the Library of Congress from Feb. 14 through May 12 of this year in commemoration of the founding of the City of Savannah and the Colony of Georgia, has just been published by the Library of Congress as part of the catalogue of the exhibition. Containing 96 pages and illustrations of 15 of the more important items of the exhibit, the publication is part of a series being issued by the Library, in observance of the centennial anniversaries of the 48 States.

The illustrations in the catalogue are of the following subjects: Chief Tomochichi, of the Yamacraws, and his nephew, Tooanahowi; a view of Savannah in 1734, a page of a page of Alexander H. Stephens' autobiography; a view of Old Oglethorpe University; the cover of Richard Henry Wilde's famous song, "My Life Is Like a Summer Rose"; a Negro slave couple; old Fort Frederica; "St. Elmo," mansion at Columbus; a gracefully curved staircase in the Governor Herschel V. Johnson-Ennis House near Milledgeville; and Sidney Lanier's birthplace in Macon.

Copies of the booklet may be purchased for 50 cents each from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C.

National Guard Head Calls Gray Report 'Puerile'

ST. LOUIS—(INS)—Maj. Gen. Edgar A. Snodgrass, President of the National Guard Association, denounced as "puerile and far-fetched" reasons advanced by a Government board for incorporating the National Guard into a Federal militia.

Gray report "has been guilty of a series of misstatements and omissions which can only be regarded as deliberate."

The Gray Board was appointed by Defense Sec. Forrestal last November to study the problem of the National Guard and Organized Reserve Corps. It was headed by Asst. Sec. of the Army Gordon G. Gray.

Gray was already dead as a "dodo," and promised that the National Guard Association would remain vigilant to prevent its enactment into law.

FIRE ALARM, THAT WAS ALL

Damage by Firemen To Store Disallowed

By HERMAN HANCOCK
If the Atlanta Fire Department wrecks your home or business fighting a phantom fire, that's your hard luck.

The Atlanta Board of Firemasters last night turned down a claim by Lanier Brothers, wholesale grocery firm, of 582 Decatur St., S. E., for $193, claimed as damages to their store when firemen cut down double doors and broke looking for a non-existent conflagration.

Charles C. Cox, of the law firm of Candler, Cox and McClain, said firemen entered the building about 10 p. m. Aug. 28 in answer to a call. Cox said there was no fire, but the firemen hacked their way into the store, wrecking the doors and breaking the locks. He asked reimbursement.

Asst. City Atty. J. Charlie Murphy, attending the fire meeting, backed City Atty. Jack C. Savage, who contended in a written opinion that if the firemen acted in "good faith, there was no moral or legal obligation on the part of the City."

Members of the Fire Board discussed after a lengthy discussion as to whether the Company could recover from insurance. The consensus was that burglar insurance would offer no protection since there was no burglary, and that fire policies would not cover the loss since there was no fire. The best legal minds produced was a unanimous decision that the Company could deduct the loss from income tax payments.

The local demanded that the minimum salary of orchestra members be increased from $110 to $125 a week.

The resolution stated that granting of the wage demand would "seriously impair" the finances of the orchestra Association. It warned the local that it was taking a step which might "destroy" the Orchestra.

The board said it would refund all monies paid for season subscriptions and single tickets.

Presbyterians To Meet Here, In 12 Other Cities

A series of 13 regional meetings to be held during October and November in key Southern cities by the Presbyterian Church in the United States will open the first phase of the Southern church's five-year "Program of Progress."

Dr. H. Kerr Taylor, Executive Secretary of the Presbyterian Program, said the meetings, part of a "great program of progress," are expected to give impetus to the promotion of the total program.

The Program of Progress aims to raise $4,000,000 for the Church's foreign mission cause, and $1,500,000 for its home mission work.

Regional meetings will be held in Charlotte, N. C.; Richmond, Va.; Jackson, Miss.; Birmingham, Washington, D. C.; Nashville, Tenn.; Oklahoma City, Okla.; Dallas, Texas; Houston, Texas; Kansas City, Mo.; St. Louis and Atlanta. The Atlanta meeting will be held Nov. 18-19.

Hotel Looting' Hearing Today

Ann Smith, pretty blonde woman arrested several days ago by city detectives in connection with hotel room lootings, will be tried in Recorder's Court today.

She is charged with disorderly conduct, larceny, and improper registration in a hotel. The hearing is set for this morning. A charge of disorderly conduct against her husband, Roy Smith, also will be heard today.

Bernadotte Plan Gets Bevin Plea

PARIS—(AP)—British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin yesterday called on the United Nations to approve speedily Count Folke Bernadotte's Palestine Peace Plan. He termed it the "best hope for healing the breach" between the Arabs and the Jews.

Spokesmen for the Arab nations expressed opposition to any imposition of a Palestine settlement by force. Sir Mohammed Zafrullah Khan, Foreign Minister for Pakistan, assailed Israel as a "cancer" in the Middle East that must be removed.

Atlanta Heads Carroll Radio
CARROLLTON—James C. Vocals, of Atlanta, has been appointed General Manager of Radio Station WLB and President of the Carroll Broadcasting Company in Carrollton.

Daniel L. Benson has been named sales manager of WLB, Vocals announced.

Benson came to the radio station here from Atlanta. He formerly was connected with the National Cash Register Company and the Southern Railway System.

Mrs. J. D. King Dies In Stone Mountain
Mrs. J. D. King, 63, of Stone Mountain, died last yesterday at her residence.

Funeral services will be conducted at 11 a. m. tomorrow at the Zion Baptist Church, with the Rev. J. W. Fields, officiating. Burial will be in Mountain View Cemetery.

Mrs. King is survived by her husband; a sister, Mrs. Bertha Pittard, and two brothers, O. H. Bush, and J. P. Bush.

Far East Army Diet Hit by Ship Shortage
SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—American Occupation troops in the Far East will have to go without fresh foods next month, the Chief of the Army Transportation Corps declared yesterday.

Brig. Gen. Paul F. Yount said the Army hasn't enough refrigerators to ship to send fresh foods to overseas troops. The 26-day-old Maritime strike has forced the Army to recondition three refrigerators ships from the Government's mothball fleet, the General added.

Arnall Believes Truman Can Win, Control Congress

The Democrats can win the presidential election and control of Congress this year, former Gov. Arnall predicts in an article in the October issue of The Atlantic Monthly.

The South generally will stay in the Democratic Party because that party is kinder than other parties to the South, he says. The votes of Alabama, Mississippi and South Carolina may go to the Dixiecrats.

Georgia's votes may be wasted in some other fashion, if a plot to keep the electors from being committed to the Democratic Party's nominee can succeed, he adds. Arnall points out that the Atlanta Constitution exposed the connection between the Dixiecrat Party and the struggle for ownership of tideland oil reserves.

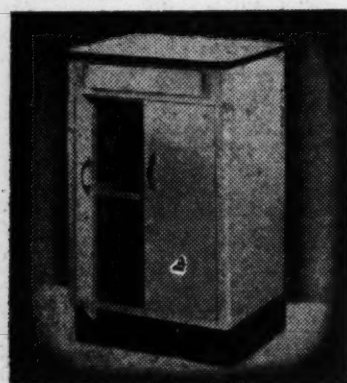

While like the South, the labor groups and "leftist intellectuals" are against the phases of the Democratic Party, they won't leave this party either for reactionary Republicanism or Henry Wallace's group, Arnall predicts.

LET'S SEE NOW

Homemaker
Comes Into Own

By DORIS LOCKERMAN

NEW YORK—The forgotten woman, the homemaker, is emerging once more into the spot she has always deserved, top billing among the career women of America.

Experts on the troubles of society who delve into the causes of divorce and juvenile delinquency and maladjustment within the family unit have come to the conclusion that they have been overlooking the most important cog in the whole wheel of life . . . the appreciation of the role the little woman has been playing all the time.

Marjorie Husted, who is Betty Crocker for General Mills and a leader in the American Home Economics Association, told the nation's food editors yesterday at the Waldorf-Astoria that educators were slowly becoming convinced that homemaking must be included in the curriculum of all girls, and that we must use all means possible to recognize the contribution to well-being played by the wife and mother who does not seek a career outside her four walls.

She touched on a note that may be a trend for the future.

"We have been urging women to come out of the kitchen," she said, "until we may have convinced them it was a poor place to be. Our advertising may have to be changed entirely."

Miss Husted's soft approach seconded the theory being advanced more and more often recently . . . that kitchens have become laboratories where, ideally, white-uniformed women work doggedly, amid flour and lard and calories and vitamins and minerals, while their families disport themselves elsewhere in the household.

Fans carry off whatever seductive odors may come from their labors, and the cheery sound of banging pots and pans is cut off from anticipation by good, thick insulation.

In short, the woman cooking the family meal is an outcast, and is apt to find herself feeling very sorry for herself indeed.

There is a trend toward the pine-paneled, informal kitchen, where the youngsters can study or play games, the father can read his newspaper, and the family cat can curl up in front of a little Dutch fireplace. It would do a lot for the word "housewife."

J. H. Sawyer, of Chicago, guiding spirit of the Newspaper Food Editors Conference, said that 24,000,000 families read the newspapers represented by the more than 100 food writers convened at the Waldorf for a week.

Claudius Philippe, director of food at the hotel, whose wife is a home economist, praised the food editors for the part they had played in weaning the American man from a traditional luncheon of chicken, peas, and apple pie with cheese.

"The tastes of the American public," said Philippe, who replaced the retired Oscar of the Waldorf, "are improving every day. And our mail indicates that thousands of brides realize that while the way to a man's heart is through his stomach, it takes a little skill for the cook to stay there once she arrives."

"What we really need," he said, a little wearily, "is a good cookbook that will tell a woman how to boil water . . . and proceed to good tea and coffee. Even in this day of semiprepared meals, it is still a culinary art to serve them tastefully."

The Waldorf, bent on proving itself the "Tiffany" of the hotel business, invited the editors on a tour of its cavernous lower-level kitchens, where 1,000,000 meals are served daily. There, amid hangings of gleaming copper pots and pans and signs reading "Petit Fours" and "Alaska Scuffle," the cookery ladies breakfasted on champagne and something called Lorraine kuche. It tasted like a cheese custard seasoned with onions, and it did credit to its name.

Food Notes

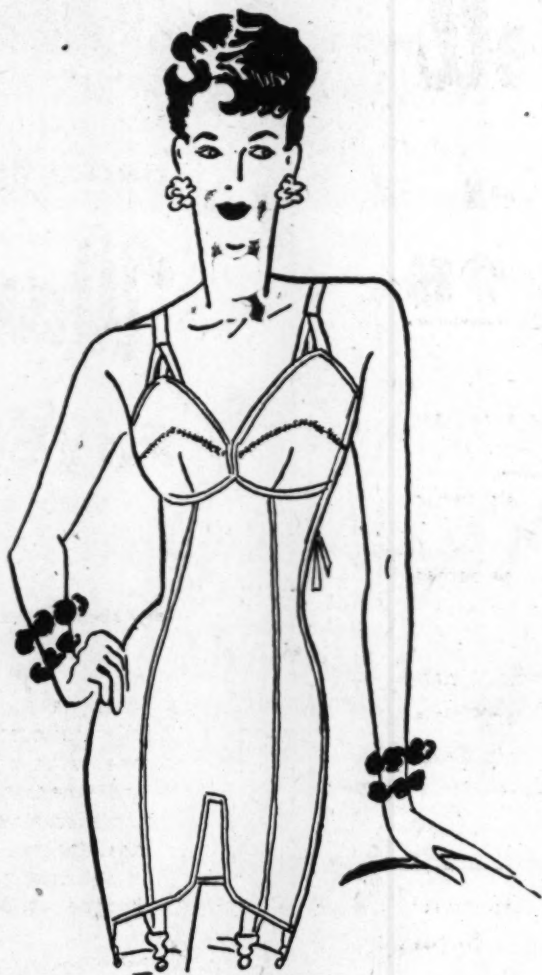

By SALLY SAVER

Here's a dessert that's so tasty it melts in your mouth. Serve it to the family tonight and be ready when they ask for more.

LIME MINT MERINGUE PIE

4 tablespoons corn starch
¾ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ cups water
2 mint sprigs
3 egg yolks
½ cup lime juice
2 teaspoons grated lime rind
Vanilla wafers
Meringue

Blend together corn starch, sugar, salt and water; add mint sprigs. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly, until thickened. Cover; cook 10 minutes. Remove mint. Beat egg yolks; add hot mixture gradually. Cook over hot water three minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat; add lime juice and grated lime rind. Pour into 9-inch pie plate lined with vanilla wafers or crumb crust; arrange halved wafers around edge. Top with meringue. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 15 minutes. Cool. Garnish with mint. Yield: one 9-inch pie. To make meringue: Beat three egg whites until stiff, but not dry; gradually beat in six tablespoons sugar.

Questions and Answers

DANGER

We are anxious to know whether it would be dangerous to pluck your eyebrows. (L. K. and V. D.)

Answer—You wouldn't live to regret it. But there is no danger in plucking your own if you are silly enough to want to do so.

CONDIMENTS

I like my food highly seasoned—not with salt so much as with pepper. I pepper soup, potatoes or whatever I'm eating—friends tell me it will cause cancer and other diseases . . . food tasteless without pepper. (Mrs. L. P.)

Answer—It certainly will not cause cancer or other disease. Use all the pepper you like and as long as it doesn't disturb your digestion you can laugh at your friends' notions. Better, investigate the flavor delights you can get from the regular use of various other condiments, as described in the cookbook that ends all cookbooks, Adelle Davis' "Let's Cook It Right."

KAIN SAYS:

Hefty Hips Not Hopeless

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Fashion has swung back to normal . . . hip padding is definitely out. This style reversal proves again that hindsight is better than foresight—or does it? Well, anyway, it was always an open secret as to whether the padding was bustle or muscles, especially on the girls with hefty hips. The fashion did nothing to minimize their figure problem. So, although roundness of the hips continues, all extra padding has been removed. Now to remove the excess fat padding.

We'll start with the gluteus maximus muscle, the one we sit on. What would happen if we lost the use of this muscle? Sitting could go on as usual, for that is not active exercise, and we could walk along normally. But stair climbing or going up hills would cause extreme fatigue, and running, jumping and dancing would be exhausting. So run in place, or take the stairs two at a time.

And that's our angle on calisthenics. The big hip muscle is not called into vigorous action until the leg is flexed at the hip to an angle of more than 45 degrees, or moved against strong resistance.

Using this science of muscle action, let's work out a few hip-slimming exercises . . .

Position: Lying on left side on floor, legs straight down, place palm of right hand firmly on the back of the hip.

Movement: Swing right leg slightly forward to get up momentum, then slowly and forcibly swing leg back, resisting strongly with the arm and hand muscles. This puts the force of the action through the bulky hip muscle. Repeat slowly, six times, change sides and continue with the opposite leg. Later work up to 12 counts or more, but change sides after each six swings.

Here's another scientific hip slimmer . . .

Position: Resting on hands and knees. Movement: Bring right knee forward, then straighten the right leg, bringing it back and up, raising the leg directly backward so the pull will be smack through the big hip muscle. Flex knee again and repeat six times; then perform with the left leg.

To make this exercise more rugged, grasp the right ankle with right hand, pull the leg back and up to a right angle, parallel with the floor. Again raise the leg directly backward to center the action. Four times . . . that streamliner is not for sissies.

Members 'Let Hair Down' For Garden Club Birthday

That dignified group of Atlanta women who compose the Peachtree Garden Club "let their hair down," so to speak, when they celebrated the club's twenty-fifth birthday anniversary yesterday at the home of the founder, Mrs. Andrew Calhoun, on Pace's Ferry Road.

The party atmosphere was heightened by the serving of sparkling champagne and birthday cake, but the "awards" to leading members of the club provided the climax. For instance, a huge gold paper crown, encrusted with "heirloom jewelry" from the dime store, was presented to the club's first President, Mrs. Phinixy Calhoun. To the founder, Mrs. Andrew Calhoun, the group presented a wide white ribbon trimmed with bows and inscribed in gold letters, and to Mrs. Jesse Draper went a corsage of paper flowers the size of an automobile tire.

Mrs. William F. Hill's interest in hemerocallis won for her a paper replica of the flower. That necessary household gadget, familiar to many as "The Plumber's Friend," was given to Mrs. Albert Thornton. Painted in bright gold, it was filled with peaches and tied with ribbons. The awards were the clever handiwork of that gifted member, Mrs. Malcolm Fleming, and the interesting booklets which each member received carried a history of the club written by Mrs. Draper.

The founding of the club in 1923 provided the cue for another interesting feature of the afternoon. Many of the members, including the President, Mrs. Charles Case, attended the party in costumes which were the height of fashion in the early twenties.

Even the Marines Were Amazed!

Recent honors which have come to Judson W. Germon, Jr., would seem to indicate that he is headed for a brilliant career. Judson is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Judson W. Germon, on Clifton Road after finishing his boot training with the U. S. Marines at Parris Island, S. C. When he volunteered for service in the Marines, he was given a 50-word questionnaire prepared by leading psychologists.

It was necessary to answer 24 of the questions correctly to pass. Nineteen is average, but Judson came forth with all 50 correct! According to the officials, it was the first time any recruit had chalked up such a record.

This popular Atlantan, who measures six feet, 4½ inches in height, left Atlanta for boot camp in charge of money and tickets for 30 recruits. Upon arrival, he was elevated to the position of division leader of his platoon of 113, out of which number he is one of 15 selected to receive specialized training. Before entering the Marines, Judson was affiliated with the Fulton National Bank.

Mrs. Tuttle To Go North

Last Thursday, John Harmon, who with his wife, Jane, have spent the Summer with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Tuttle, on Westminster Drive, departed for Cambridge, Mass., to resume his studies at the Episcopal Theological Seminary. John is as brown as an Indian, having spent his Summer holidays aiding in the construction of the Tuttle's new home on Peachtree Circle.

On Oct. 5, Mrs. Tuttle will accompany Jane and her children, Beisy and Cathy, to Massachusetts to assist her daughter and son in getting settled in their home before the Winter season begins. She will remain in the East for about two weeks.

Mrs. Lambert Returns

After an enjoyable Summer spent at her home, Graco, on the Gulf Shores, Mrs. Gray Lambert has returned and is residing with Mrs. Virgil Jones on Fifteenth Street.

Even while vacationing Mrs. Lambert pursued her hobby of designing intimate gardens, and now that she is home again, her enthusiasm for her work has reached a new peak and she has made many plans for the Fall and Winter.

Life's Tangled Web

By ANGELA BROWN

(Send your favorite quotation or philosophy to Living Words, The Constitution, quoting your source. Your name will be used as contributor, unless you request it be withheld.)

Dears Mrs. Brown:

I am a widow and live alone, my three children having married and established their own home. A fine man has asked me to marry him. My children have hit the ceiling for they say I should honor the memory of their father more than to marry again. They worshipped him and think that I am doing wrong in having any idea of this man. What would you do?

WORRIED WIDOW.

ANSWER—Marry the man if it will make you happy. It will be no dishonor to the memory of your first husband. I think your children are being very selfish in their attitude. You have reared them and they are married and have their homes and families. It's time you considered yourself and your happiness.

Dear Mrs. Brown: I am very much in love with my sister's husband. All the family, including him, my sister, my parents and my younger brother live in the same house. I know he must care for me for he is so nice to me and seems to be interested in all I do. What can I do?

ANSWER—Forget about him and fall in love with someone else. Don't be silly enough to think just because the man is nice to you, courteous and appears interested in your life that he is in love with you. He is probably interested in everything the whole family does in the first place, and in the second place he proved who is really loved by marrying your sister.

Store Issues New Book To Drivers

A new, illustrated pamphlet titled "Learn to Handle Your Hot Rod" has been issued to the holders of brand-new driving licenses by Davison's as part of the store's twelfth annual safety crusade.

It is written with understanding:

"When you drive a car and the pedestrians and fellow motorists you encounter en route don't have to pick up little pieces of themselves from the highway as you pass, or peer through a shattered windshield to jot down your license number as you speed nonchalantly away . . . that's safe driving . . ."

"Driving requires the use of both arms and both feet . . . you can't manage without 'em. And if one of these limbs happens to be otherwise occupied when you need it . . . well, you might never need it again."

"There are plenty of 'good drivers' who think they can stop on a dime, and still have a nickel left over. Well, just try it and you'll find yourself flying through the windshield to collect your change."

The pamphlet has a foreword by Miss Ira Jarrell, Superintendent of Schools; Capt. Marvin Thomas, Atlanta Police Department, and Mrs. Frank C. Collins, Safety Director, Georgia Motor Club AAA.

3♠ 3♠ 3♠ 3♠
4♠ 4♠ 4♠ 4♠

The informative double as a means of showing strength when an opponent has opened the bidding, has come to be reasonably well understood by the public. But that this same bid is available as a weapon, also to the person who has opened the bidding himself but has not yet heard from partner, does not seem to register with many players.

In today's hand South opens the bidding with one diamond, which is properly overcalled by West with one spade. North and East pass in due course, especially North. South, of course, is in no mood to give up and naturally must take some action, despite his partner's far away look.

It would be highly improper for South merely to rebid two diamonds, and it would be equally unsound to contest with a simple bid of two hearts. The proper procedure to show a powerful opening bid and a flexible hand is to double. This, of course, is still a takeout double because partner has not yet bid. The double, however, gives partner a number of choices. He may bid hearts, he may bid clubs, he may return to diamonds, he may bid no trump, or in some cases might leave the double in for penalties if such action should appear to be profitable.

When I saw this hand played the South player doubled the bid of one spade and North responded with two hearts. This is the proper call rather than a return to partner's bid suit. When partner has made a takeout double we should go to great lengths to show any major suit holding. South then raised to three hearts and North decided to pass. An easy game was missed.

Upon whose shoulders should rest the blame for missing the boat? Concededly this is a close case. South argued that if his partner had nothing, the losses added up to a spade, a club, and two hearts, that if he were sure his partner had the king of hearts he would have contracted game himself. I had to allow certain merit to his argument, but all things considered I think he might have gambled it out himself. North might have only the queen of hearts and with a little luck the trump losers could be held to one trick, or North might have five little hearts in which case the game will be easy if the suit happens to break. This is the type of hand on which South should take the strain off his partner. If all you need from partner is a king or a queen to produce game, you out to assume full responsibility and take a chance yourself.

Kiwanis Backing Sought On State Aid for Palsied

By KATHERINE BARNWELL

Georgia's Kiwanis Clubs will be asked to back the Cerebral Palsy Society of Georgia in getting a bill passed at the January session of the Legislature to aid the State's 4,000 cerebral palsied children.

In a letter to Sen. G. Everett Millican, Kiwanis District Governor, Mrs. T. Jackson Lowe, President of the Cerebral Palsy Society, said:

"We are calling on Kiwanians to help us. Through the guidance of such people as you, we feel that we can realize for these children an outstanding program they so justly deserve."

Mrs. Lowe named two chief needs of the cerebral palsied:

1. A program of education and rehabilitation for those children who are teachable.

2. A custodial home for those unable to be treated and in need of nursing care.

"The cerebral palsied are 'forgotten' in that the general public is blindly unaware of their needs," Mrs. Lowe stated. "Many people

CHANNING COPE'S ALMANAC:

Duroc 'Eating Hog' Wins Barrow Prize

TUESDAY, SEPT. 28, 1948

Suggestion of the Day:
Ask your county agent about crimson clover and alfalfa. Many farmers are getting good results from both of these legumes.

Well, from all accounts the Fat Barrow Show at Moultrie last week, under the auspices of the Georgia Swine Breeders Association, was a success. Byron Southwell, the President, is loud in his praise of the co-operation received from the exhibitors, the Moultrie people, and especially the help of Swift & Co. Prizes totaled over $1,000. This is a fine figure for the first barrow show held here in some years.

Southwell's barrow won the grand championship, with Hamp Jennings' running a very close second. The winner was a Duroc and the reserve champion was a Poland China barrow.

The principal value of a barrow show is to award prizes to the type of hogs the consuming public prefers. The consumers set the standards and the packers follow suit, and the hog breeders must follow along with what is demanded. A barrow is an eating hog; that is, he is developed for eating purposes only. It is not for him to spend long and interesting years in bringing up countless progeny of the type his characteristics insure. He is selected as a very small pig and is hurried along to the cooling board with as quick dispatch as possible. Nothing is demanded of him but his life and that is not of long duration. Six months is his allotted span as a rule. But this is his destiny and he does not complain.

Seriously, the barrow show was so successful that the Swine Association is already announcing a repetition of it for 1949.

Hamp Jennings is the new President of the association and this makes everything 100 percent. There is no better hog breeder anywhere than A. H. Jennings, of Americus.

Congratulations to the association and the Moultrie Chamber of Commerce on the first barrow show.

Will you join us at 6 a. m. and 12:45 p. m.? We'd like your company—$5 on up.

As ever,

Channing Cope

Zionist Speaker Sees Victory For Israel

"Three weeks of out-and-out war would see complete annihilation of the Arab armies of Israel."

"That prediction came last night from Maj. Wellesley Aron, one of Palestine Jewry's outstanding heroes of World War II, who helped form and later commanded the first Palestinian unit of the British Army."

Maj. Aron, a native of England and the Maj. Wellesley Aron first Jew to be commissioned by the British Army in Palestine at the outbreak of the war, told members of the Progressive Club here the Palestine situation is "not a local or parochial problem, but a world-wide problem."

He termed the assassination of United Nations Mediator Count Folke Bernadotte a "premeditated and dastardly act" and the struggle between Jews and Arabs "the story of David and Goliath all over again."

"We will win our battle," he asserted confidently. "The Jews must win because we will consider no other way of life than freedom and independence and because we must establish a secure haven for our displaced persons. We're a tough people; we've proved that by surviving this long."

Maj. Aron, a Cambridge graduate who established the Haifa Nautical School and helped organize air-raid services in Tel Aviv, spoke here under auspices of the Zionist Organization of America.

Taft-Hartley Law
Town Hall Topic

By RITA VAN PELT

Should the Taft-Hartley Law Be Repealed? . . . Has it undermined the policy of collective bargaining? . . . and, has it increased or decreased labor strife? These are some of the questions the public has been mulling over for some time now. These controversial questions, and others relative to the Taft-Hartley Law, will be discussed on WCOT-ABC's "America's Town Meeting" tonight at 8:30.

Speaking for the affirmative will be: Sen. O'Mahoney, Democrat, Wyoming, member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, and Secretary of Labor Tobin. Taking the negative view will be: J. Mack Swigert, Cincinnati lawyer and a partner of Sen. Taft, Republican, Ohio, and Sen. Ball, Republican, Minnesota, Chairman of the Joint House and Senate Committee on Labor-Management Relations.

JUDGE WARNS KENNEL OWNERS

Yapping Dogs of VIPs
Get No Court Favors

WASHINGTON—(AP)—If a dog howls, he's an annoyance—even if he does belong to Winston Churchill.

So said Judge Stedman Prescott, of Montgomery County, Maryland, Circuit Court, yesterday in directing owners of a large kennel to keep their dogs from disturbing the neighborhood.

The kennel at Ashton, Md., houses from 40 to 70 dogs, it was testified, and some of the pups belonged to such noted people as Winston Churchill, Henry A. Wallace and Marlene Dietrich.

Said Judge Prescott: "These are very prominent persons, but it is difficult to discern any difference in the annoyance caused by a large group of howling dogs, whether owned by a Prime Minister, a movie star, a former Vice President, or just a commonplace person like oneself."

The eminence of the owner certainly wouldn't lessen the irritation of whines, howls and barks, he said.

"Indeed, if recent news items can be believed, the 'barking' of at least one of the well-known owners has been distinctly disagreeable to people in certain sections of this country," he commented.

The injunction case was brought by Sam Rice, former outfielder for

A round-table discussion, "When Should a Client Consult a Lawyer?" will be heard over Station WCOT tonight at 9:45. This is the third in a series of radio programs offered by the Atlanta Bar Association.

Gus Sams, distinguished Atlanta attorney, will preside at the discussion. He is a former law partner of the late Judge Paul S. Etheridge, Sr., and the late Judge A. L. Etheridge, of the Fulton Superior Court. For many years he has practiced independently in Atlanta.

Assisting him will be C. O. Johnson, a member of the firm of Alston, Foster, Sibley & Miller, and the late Judge A. L. Etheridge, Sr., of the Fulton Superior Court. For many years he has practiced independently in Atlanta.

Hugh Howell, Jr., of the firm of Heyman, Howell & Heyman, has the subject, "When Should a Client Consult a Lawyer in Making a Contract?"

James C. Howard, Jr., a member of the firm of Dunaway, Riley & Howard, will explain when a lawyer is needed in handling claims for personal injuries and property damages.

Croom Partridge, a member of the firm of Smith, Partridge, Field, Dumas & Ringle, will tell when it is advisable to consult a lawyer in planning the distribution of one's estate after death.

Russell G. Turner, senior partner of Turner & Turner, will undertake the delicate task of relating precisely when a lawyer is needed during domestic difficulties.

This is the third in the series of radio programs entitled "Lawyers Talk It Over," presented under the direction of General Chairman Frank Carter of the Radio Programs, and under the sponsorship of Pres. Henry L. Bowden and the Executive Committee of the Atlanta Bar Association.

Take Spinach for instance

We are one of those hardy souls who can take it or leave it. But we have it for them as wants it so badly they cannot overcome the craving. Leafy, curly spinach, pretty as a picture, stewed with just a whisper of dew clinging to the leaves. Sometimes we serve it that way; when we feel energetic we cream it.

We go in for the hardier vegetables, too—turnip greens cooked with side meat; the humble cabbage exalted to its highest dignity with luscious corned beef, and the cutest, haughty looking butter beans which we snootily call lima beans.

In moments of exaltation we show our refinement by dishing out globes of aristocratic cauliflower, broccoli, and even the burr artichoke. We're plebeian, but we can put on the dog with the best.

Truth is our kitchens run the whole gamut of the vegetable world, each prepared by cooks of artistry and served by our men of distinction who appear on the payroll as waiters—but they do the waiting, not you.

Wild Pecan Flooring Cargo Clears Mobile

MOBILE, Ala.—(P)—A shipload of Alabama-produced wild pecan flooring, probably the first ever moved through here, was en route to a new market in South Africa. The 71,000-pound cargo, manufactured by a Selma, Ala., hardwood mill, left on the freighter La Cordillera for Port Elizabeth, South Africa, yesterday.

Manager David Knapp, of the Mobile Traffic Association, which handled the cargo, said this was the first movement of a new program of resurrecting idle wild pecan stands in the Southeastern hardwood belt in Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and Northwest Florida.

Diner Segregation Upheld by U. S. Court

BALTIMORE—(P)—A U. S. District Court has ruled the dining car regulations on Southern railroads do not discriminate against Negroes.

The carriers in 1946 adopted a policy of setting aside for Negroes a table or two in a curtained or partitioned section at the kitchen end of dining cars.

Judge William C. Coleman and Judge W. Calvin Chesnut said in their majority opinion yesterday: "Racial segregation of interstate passengers is not forbidden by any provision of the Federal Constitution, the interstate commerce act or any other act of Congress as long as there is no real inequality of treatment of those of different races."

Stock Prices Skid Sharply On News of Berlin Crisis

NEW YORK—(AP)—Losses ranging from one to more than four points pushed the stock market to its lowest level in more than five months yesterday as an echo of the Berlin crisis. The three Western powers consider Russia's blockade of Berlin a threat to peace and intend to ask emergency action by the Security Council of the United Nations in Paris.

The volume of stock trading was 1,210,000 shares and was the highest since Aug. 11 with the exception of last Monday when the total was 1,260,000 on a declining market. The heaviest trading was in the first and final hours when the dip in prices was the most pronounced.

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION • Tuesday, Sept. 28, 1948 • 21

New Colonial Store One of South's Largest

With a $60,000 stock of goods on the floor, Colonial Stores on Thursday, Sept. 30, will open one of the largest supermarkets in the South.

This store, housed in a new building at 270-276 Washington St., S. W., will be the twenty-fifth Colonial super-market in the Atlanta area. Counting the smaller stores of the Colonial chain, it will be the fifty-first Colonial store in this area.

For size, this store ranks with the largest in the Atlanta area. It is 90 feet by 170 feet and the display space takes up an area 90 by 120 feet. It will have more than 100 employees.

There are seven check lanes at the front entrance on Washington Street and four at the rear entrance leading to a parking lot which faces Memorial Drive. In addition, there will be two other parking lots, all with a capacity of 200 cars at one time.

Aside from its size, this store will have two distinctive features: (1) an upstairs bakery of its own; and (2) a large bargain counter for the daily display of low-priced goods.

L. A. Stanaland, formerly of Columbus, will be superintendent of this store. He will have five managers: A. M. Hixon, of the meat department; P. A. Webb, groceries; Jack Taylor, delicatessen; Miss Virginia Stalling, bakery; and Jimmie Shelton, produce.

There will be prizes on opening day.

Huge Cotton Carryover Seen for 1948-49 Season

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Agricultural Department reported Monday that the carry-over of cotton is now an even higher basis than since the average, much heavier bales produced in the United States and consumed 88 percent of all the cotton manufactured into yarn and cloth by the entire industry.

And Georgia ranks third in textile manufacturing states, exceeded only by the Carolinas. T. M. Forbes, Executive Vice President of the Cotton Manufacturers Association of Georgia, said in a speech before the Atlanta Rotary Club yesterday.

"Georgia ranks second in consumption of cotton, however, because Georgia mills produce, on the average, much heavier bales than do the mills in South Carolina, thereby requiring more cotton per spindle," he said.

According to the latest available figures from the State Department of Labor, the Georgia textile industries today employ about 105,000 people and last year Georgia textile mills paid out a total of $216,951,584 in wages to its employees. This figure is an even higher basis now since more Georgia mills only recently made another increase of 8 percent in their wage rates, he said.

Georgia textile mills used an average of 2,100,000 bales of cotton per year during the last five years, and during the same period, the Georgia farmers grew an average of only 741,000 bales of cotton. Thus the mills of the State, during the past five years, have consumed three times as much cotton as has been produced by all of the farmers in the State," he said.

CROWD CONTROLLER
Sgt. Z. P. Aiken and Speaker

Portable Voice Booster Plays A Big Role

A portable loudspeaker which can be heard for more than a block is now an important part of City Police Department's equipment.

The loudspeaker, attached to a small portable battery, is a part of equipment of the Department's specialized car which answers all wreck calls, fire alarms, and any other call which might bring a crowd.

With the speaker, a policeman, talking in an ordinary tone of voice, can be heard talking to a vast throng.

Sgt. Z. P. Aiken, who is assigned to the specialized car in day time, has become quite an expert at handling crowds with the loudspeaker. Through the speaker he keeps the spectators back so that firemen will not be hindered in their work. He used the speaker effectively several weeks ago at the North Boulevard apartment fire, and again when the home of James L. Barfoot, Progressive Party candidate for Governor, was badly damaged. The Barfoot home was located on West Peachtree Street and the blaze soon attracted an enormous crowd.

The speaker is very compact. The microphone, amplifier and horn are all assembled into one piece, while a long light wire runs from the speaker to the battery which remains in the police car.

Mission Topic To Be Stressed At Baptist Rally

By THOMAS M. ELLIOTT

Special attention will be given city missions, home missions, religious education and all-out evangelism during the two-day session of the Atlanta Baptist Association, to be held at Inman Park Baptist Church, Oct. 19-20. Addresses and studies of the subjects named will be given by E. E. Steele, J. B. Lawrence, Fred Gunn and E. B. Shivers.

The Rev. J. C. Daniel, Moderator of the Association, announces a year of progress in each of the 98 churches in Greater Atlanta comprising the Association, with particular emphasis on the growth of membership and the establishment of new church congregations.

Other speakers announced for the annual meeting include Miss Erva Blackstock, of the Baptist Book Store; J. J. Hurt, Jr., of the Christian Index; Henry Greer, of the Baptist Student Union, and Monroe Swilly, who is to deliver the Association sermon.

The Committee on Arrangements consists of Paul S. James, C. C. Buckalew, David Evans and L. E. Smith.

FIRST EVER TRIED

Plane To Plant Grass at Albany

ALBANY—(P)—Grass will be planted by an airplane in Dougherty County next week.

In what is believed to be the first experiment of its type attempted in Georgia, 6,600 pounds of rye grass seed will be dropped on 330 acres of pasture land on the farm of J. Andy Benton, located about five miles from Albany.

Sponsors of the experiment are the land owner, County Agent J. D. Davis and T. C. Ferguson, of the Georgia Dusting Company.

"The soil of the pastures will not be touched," said Davis. "The seed will be dropped and we believe the weather will do the rest. It will take about 20 pounds of seed to the acre."

Pastors Back Newton In Plea on Beer Sales

Atlanta Baptist pastors Monday unanimously voted approval of a resolution presented by Dr. Louis D. Newton, addressed to Mayor Hartsfield and the City Council, asking that reconsideration be given the sale of beer at the Municipal Auditorium, as granted last week.

Political Fight

SAVANNAH—(P)—A three-way fight for city offices in December was indicated when the Citizens Progressive Party, victor in the city election two years ago, announced it was making plans to enter a ticket in the municipal Democratic primary.
